FRANCE.

Opening of the Corps Legislatif—The Danish Islands.

PARIS, Monday, June 28—Evening.

The session of the Corps Legislatif was opened to-day. The Emperor was not present, and M. ROUHER, Minister of State, made the opening speech. He said the Chamber was convoked to verify its authority. The renewal of the Corps Legislatif by universal suffrage afforded a natural opportunity for the nation to express its thoughts, aspirations and wants, but the political results of that manifestation should not be precipitate. The Government would present resolutions and projects of law in order to realize the wishes of the country.

Editorial articles appear in the Moniteur and Pays to-day, on the sale of the Danish West India Islands to the United States. The two journals concur in declaring that honor, and self-interest alike demand of the American Government the faithful execution of the treaty concluded with Denmark.

Rochefort's Case—A Heavy Sentence Pronounced upon Him—The Ill-Fortune of other Editors.

PARIS, Monday, June 28.

HENRI ROCHEFORT, editor of the Lanterne, has been convicted of the charge of introducing that journal illegally into France. He has been sentenced to three years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of 3,000 francs. To these penalties are added the forfeiture of his rights of citizenship for three years, including the right to vote in any election, or to occupy a seat in the Corps Legislatif.

M. M. SIMONSON and JORDAN, editors of the Siècle, have been fined each 100 francs, and each editor of the Opinion Nationale has been condemned to one month's imprisonment with a fine of 500 francs, all for violations of the Press law.

The Emperor at Beauvais—His Reception and Speeches.

PARIS, Monday, June 28.

The Emperor yesterday visited the City of Beauvais, and was received with enthusiasm by the people. The Mayor and Bishop of Beauvais received the Emperor at the city gates and conducted him to the Hôtel de Ville, where they presented addresses of welcome to His Majesty. In reply to the Mayor's speech the Emperor returned his thanks for the welcome he had received from the municipality and people of Beauvais. He reminded the Mayor of his presence in the city at the inauguration of the statue of the heroine, JEAN FOUCONNIER, "La Hachette," eighteen years ago. He was pleased to see the progress which the city, and the Department of which it was the capital, had made since that period in agriculture and industry. He declared that this prosperity was mainly due to the order which for the past seventeen years had reigned in France, and he was certain that this condition of order would never be seriously disturbed.

In response to the Bishop of Beauvais, the Emperor said the addresses of Bishops, couched in the language of piety, were always received with deference. If his prayers were heard, religion would be honored by a happy people and France would be great and prosperous.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Public Breakfast by the Queen in Honor of the Viceroy.

LONDON, Monday, June 28.

The Queen gave a public breakfast in honor of the Viceroy of Egypt this morning at Buckingham Palace.

The House of Commons have passed the Bankruptcy bill to a third reading.

In the House of Lords to-night Baron WENSLEYDALE gave notice of an amendment to the Irish Church bill, granting, out of the present revenues, £2,000,000 sterling to the Catholics, £1,000,000 to the Presbyterians, and the balance to the Irish Church.

Fenian Demonstrations in Ireland.

DUBLIN, Monday, June 28.

Large meetings were held yesterday in various parts of Ireland by those who favor the proposition to release the Fenian prisoners. At the Cork meeting there were five thousand people present, and at Dublin two thousand. Similar meetings were held at Limerick, Ennis, Mullingar and Drogheda, and in all cases able speeches were made and resolutions passed looking to the end in view.

The Times on the United States Indian Question.

LONDON, Monday, June 28.

The Times to-day has an article reviewing the policy of the United States Government in dealing with the Indian tribes. It praises its patience and forbearance in the past, and believes the course the Government is now driven to adopt to be unavoidable. No terms of peace, continues the Times, are practicable with unmitigated and, for the most part, implacable savages. They must disappear, or the American nation will be checked in its growth and progress.

Public Securities—Quarterly Payments of Interest Proposed.

LONDON, Monday, June 28.

In the House of Commons to-night Mr. LOWE, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced that Her Majesty's Government intended to propose quarterly payments of interest on public securities.

Preparations for the Departure of the Great Floating Dock.

LONDON, Monday, June 28.

The great floating dock was towed down the Channel to-day on her way to Bermuda. Everything worked satisfactorily, and it was thought she would go through safely.

Propositions of the Republicans—Trouble Brewing.

MADRID, Monday, June 28.

The Republicans in the Cortes propose to move a vote of censure against Minister SAGASTA and Editor MESSERA for their recent tyrannical conduct.

Prince HENRI DE BOURBON has taken the oath to support the new Constitution. A battalion of soldiers in Barcelona refuse to take the oath.

ROME.

Allocution by the Pope—The Condition of the Church at Home and Abroad.

ROME, Monday, June 28.

The Pope delivered an Allocution yesterday, in which he reviewed the condition of the Church in Italy and other countries. He deplores the Italian law respecting clerical students to military conscription as an infringement of the immunities, rights and liberty of the Church. He dwells on the evils afflicting the Church in Austria and Hungary, and on the complaints of the Bishops in those countries. The events in Spain give cause for sadness and mourning. The zeal of the Bishops in Poland, endangered by Russian persecution, is a source of consolation. The Allocution concludes with these words: "Let the enemies of Christ consider the fate of His enemies. Let us pray that they may be restored to the paths of justice, and that the Church may be crowned with fresh triumph."

Strike of the Printers.

AMSTERDAM, Monday, June 28.

The printers of this city have struck for an advance of wages, and for shorter hours of work.

THE NEW CABLE

BREST, Monday, June 28.

Up to last evening the steamship Great Eastern had made 207 knots from Brest, and had paid out 778 knots of cable. There has been no fault whatever in the cable itself; the interruption noted a few days ago, it is now ascertained, was owing to imperfections in the land connections. The signals are still perfect. All well on board the steamer.

Notice to Navigators—The Shore End to be Landed Aug. 1.

The Great Eastern will probably arrive at the Island of St. Pierre, near the south coast of Newfoundland, in the last week of July, and the following notice to navigators has been issued as a warning against collision:

To the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, New-York:

Please notify ships leaving for Europe that the Great Eastern and other ships, with the Atlantic Cable, are expected to be on the Banks in the first week in July, so that care may be taken to avoid collision.

MANAGING DIRECTOR
Telegraph Construction Company.

The Great Eastern will proceed no further than St. Pierre. From that point the cable will be taken up by the steamers Scandaria and Chiltern, which will land the shore end at Duxbury, Mass., about the 1st of August. Duxbury is a town of four or five thousand inhabitants, in Plymouth County, thirty-six miles southeast of Boston. It is about six miles from the railroad station at Plymouth, and, in consequence of its retired situation, has hitherto been little known. As the western terminus of the Brest cable, however, the place will grow in importance.

CUBA.

The Arrival of the New Captain-General—His Proclamation—What He Intends to Do.

HAVANA, Monday, June 28—Evening.

Captain-General DE RODAS landed at 11 o'clock this morning. He was quietly received with the ceremonies which are customary on the disembarkation of a new Governor.

As soon as the Captain-General was installed in the palace, he issued a proclamation. In this he says the platform of his line of conduct is embraced in three words: "Spain, Justice and Morality." He thanks the volunteers for the services they have rendered in the cause of order, justice and public rights, and tells them they ought to feel proud of their past action. He closes with an allocution to the army and navy.

The Diario publishes an article full of the usual compliments for a new Captain-General. The Prensa mentions the fact of General DE RODAS' arrival in a brief article. The Voz de Cuba approves of the proclamation in every respect, and hopes DE RODAS will act here as he did at Malaga and Cadiz.

The insurgents, 1,000 strong, attacked an encampment containing the garrison of Sabana Nueva, near Puerto Principe, on the 20th inst., and captured the entire force, some eighty men. General LETONA sallied from Puerto Principe to their succor, but arrived too late. He found that the rebels had destroyed the encampment, and left four Spanish soldiers dead on the ground. General LETONA returned to Puerto Principe on the 21st.

The Prensa to-day acknowledges that the news lately received from Puerto Principe, Nuevitas and Gibara is unsatisfactory.

Advices of the 21st have been received from Santiago de Cuba. A number of filibusters, who landed from the schooner Grapeshot, and subsequently fell into the hands of the troops, had been executed there. Among them were CHAS. SPEAKMAN, of Aurora, Ind.; ALBERT WEEN, of New-York; CARLOS QUINONES, MARTIN JUSTIS, and HAVERES ESTEVES.

Three filibusters, named PEDRO VALDES, JOSE PENA and GREGORIO RODRIGUES, were shot on the 17th inst., near Guantanomo.

Reinforcements left Nuevitas on the 24th for Puerto Principe. General ESCALANTE is sick.

The general headquarters of the insurgents are established on the El Cercado plantation, and it is reported that the Cuban Generals QUESADA, VALDES, CASTILLO and BERMUDA have met there and united their forces.

Colonel DENDGASSI has arrived here in bad health.

The cholera continues in the towns of the interior. Report says a majority of the men who landed from the Perit and from other vessels have either been killed by the troops or have died from disease.

General FERRAR remains at Puerto del Padre.

The insurgents have burnt the Atalaya Plantation, owned by Colonel ALBEAR.

Several skirmishes are reported in various parts of the island, resulting favorably for the Government troops.

The Yellow Fever and Cholera—Spanish Losses—Recent Skirmishes and Results—The Filibusters.

WASHINGTON, Monday, June 28.

Cubans have this morning received advices up to the 25th inst., which confirm previous reports of the prevalence of cholera and fever among the Spanish troops. The mortality is said to be very great in several portions of the island. Their line of communication is cut off and they are suffering for want of food and medicine. The Spanish army has lost since the commencement of the revolution more than half their force in battle and by disease and desertion.

The Spaniards have been concentrating in the Cinco Villas District, and collisions are of almost daily occurrence. The reinforcements which were sent from Cienfuegos attacked the Cubans and were defeated. They were compelled to retreat with a loss of over 300 killed and wounded. The loss of the Cubans was less than 100. The Cuban force from Jaguey Grand attacked the Spaniards near Palmedra, defeated a large force of regulars and volunteers, and captured that town with the provisions and arms which were stored there.

The expedition which landed at Nuevas Grandes succeeded in joining the main body of the Cuban army with but little difficulty. It numbered 800 men, all in good health and spirits. They were received with great rejoicing. The Cuban army is said, to be in good fighting condition, and the leaders are determined to follow up their recent victories and are confident of success. They have as yet suffered but little from cholera, as they occupy elevated and healthy positions some distance from the coast.

THE INTERNATIONAL RACES.

A Canoe Match on the Thames Proposed—Correspondence from America, France and the Dominion—Invited Reply of Harvard to the Cork Harbor Club.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

CHARLESTOWN, Mass., Monday, June 28.

The following challenge has been received at Harvard: To make a canoe match upon the Thames within a few days after the four-oar race between Oxford and Harvard. As an early reply is solicited, any arrangements which a gentleman may see fit to make in regard to this matter will be properly attended to, or address to A. P. LORING, Captain Harvard International Four. The two printed lists mentioned in the challenge have also been received, and can be seen or questions in regard to them will be answered at request.

NO. 1 MITRE COURT BUILDINGS, TEMPLE, }
LONDON, June 14, 1869. }

SIR: We are requested by the Committee of the Canoe Club to inform you that they propose to have an international canoe race upon the Thames within a few days after the four-oar match, for which wears glad to know you are sending a crew. By the printed list of our Club sent by this mail, you will see that we have nearly two hundred members, and that the Prince of Wales is Commodore. There are also branches of the Club at the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge. The Committee will be exceedingly obliged if you can arrange to send a "canoeist" to represent the United States on that occasion. The Paris Rowing Club will be invited to send another from France, where we have one member of our Club, the Prince Imperial. We are also inviting a representative from the Dominion of Canada and one will be ready from Great Britain. The course will be two miles in length, in fair water, probably near Hampton Court, and suitable for the lightest craft. Any canoe whatever may be used, propelled by one man facing the bow. We are empowered to state that our members will gladly send the best crew they can provide, if you, Mr. Committee from the United States, if he prefers not to bring his own, and we need scarcely add that we shall be happy to give him a hospitable reception. The memento of the match will be presented to the winner by the Club, but he will doubtless modestly accept the title of being "the fastest canoeist in the world." We venture to hope that you will take such steps as may seem advisable to send a competition from your country to contend for this honor, and we shall be further obliged if you can send a reply to your earliest convenience to this friendly challenge. We have the honor to remain, Your obedient servants,

(Signed) JNO. MAGREGOR,
Captain Canoe Rob Roy.
JAMES MEWARDE,
Secretary Canoe Committee.

To the Secretary University Boat Club, Harvard University, United States.

The Captain of the Harvard International Four-oar Crew replies to the Cork Harbor Rowing Club's proposition as follows:

HARVARD UNIVERSITY, }
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 26, 1869. }

Hon. Secretary Cork Harbor Rowing Club, Glanbrook, County Cork, Ireland:

DEAR SIR: In reply to your favor of the 1st inst., inviting our men to take part in the Glanbrook Regatta of Aug. 10 and 11, I am instructed to say that as the time for our races with Oxford and Cambridge Universities follow so closely the dates you name, we fear that we shall not be able to do as you request. Our object from the beginning has been chiefly to test the relative merits of the rowing institutions at Oxford, Great Britain and this country, and our stay abroad and period of acclimation are of necessity so limited, that we hardly deem it prudent to undertake additional work. However, should we find after arriving in England that we can, without serious sacrifice, accept your generous proposal, it will give us much pleasure to do so. I have the honor to be, Sir, yours sincerely,

(Signed.) A. P. LORING,
Captain Harvard University Boat Club.

The Iron-Clad Oath in Virginia—Letter from General Canby.

RICHMOND, Va., Monday, June 28.

General CANBY writes a reply to the letter of R. W. GILLS, of the State Journal, containing an argument to sustain his position in requiring members of the Legislature to take the iron-clad oath. He contends that the Reconstruction acts require it, and that he is acting in conformity with all precedent in enforcing it.

The Conservative General Committee has determined not to allow General CANBY's opinion to influence the course of the party. The present candidates, all of whom are eligible under the Fourteenth Amendment, will be kept in the field. They say the iron-clad oath will never be presented in a practical form. Chief-Justice CHASE, while here, expressed the opinion that there was no authority in the laws of Congress to exact the iron-clad oath of members of the Legislature.

Chief-Justice CHASE left for White Sulphur Springs this morning.

Collision on the Susquehanna Railroad.

ALBANY, N. Y., Monday, June 28.

A collision occurred yesterday on the Susquehanna Railroad, between Colliers and Maryland, Otsego County, by which two locomotives and three cattle cars were badly smashed. It appears that the Cooperstown Railroad Company are allowed to run trains on the track of the Susquehanna Road, and was doing so, with a load of ties, when the cattle train from Cincinnati, en route to this city, came in sight. The engineers saw each other too late to avoid a collision, and, with the firemen, saved themselves by jumping from the engines.

Movements of Vice-President Colfax in Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Monday, June 28.

Vice-President COLFAX arrived here from Newport this morning, and, by invitation, visited the Rhode Island Locomotive Works. He was then escorted to the City Hall, where a large concourse of people had gathered to see him. He was introduced by Mayor CLARKE, and spoke for twenty minutes, and was warmly applauded. Mr. and Mrs. COLFAX left by the day train for Westerly.

Appointment of Railroad Commissioners in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Monday, June 28.

Governor CLAFLIN has appointed the following gentlemen Railroad Commissioners: J. G. CONVERSE, of Boston, three years; E. APPLETON, of Reading, two years; CHARLES T. ADAMS, Jr., of Boston, one year. Colonel GARDNER TUFTS, of Lynn, has been appointed Visiting Agent of the Board of State Charities.

Great Loss of Life from the Floods in Kansas.

ST. LOUIS, Monday, June 28.

Information from the West says the country west of Junction City, Kansas, is inundated, and in many places houses, stock, crops, &c., are washed away. It is reported that twenty-five persons have been drowned. Chapman's Creek and the town of Abeline were flooded and two persons drowned.

Base Ball—The Red Stockings in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Monday, June 28.

The game between the Cincinnatis, of Cincinnati, and the Olympics, of this city, this afternoon, resulted in a victory for the former Club by a score of 18 to 8. Over four thousand persons were present. The Cincinnatis left tonight for Wheeling, West Va.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 28.—The store sign of Moses Benedict Brothers, dry goods dealers, fell this afternoon and killed a boy, aged 11 years, who was standing under it on the sidewalk. He was the only son of GEORGE H. GREEN.

EUROPEAN NEWS BY MAIL.

ARRIVAL OF THE CITY OF ANTWERP, PENEREE AND RUSSIA.

The Inman steamer City of Antwerp, from Liverpool June 17 and Queenstown June 18, the French steamship Penerée, from Havre June 17 and Brest June 19, and the Russia, of the Cunard line, from Liverpool June 19 and Queenstown June 20, all reached this port yesterday. Our latest advices are fresher by five days than those previously at hand. Captain DUCHESNE, of the Penerée, will accept our thanks for liberal additions to our Paris files.

The full text of the Emperor NAPOLEON's letter to M. MAGNAN is thus given: "I have received the letter in which, in the name of your constituents, you express a desire that my Government may be strong enough to resist the aggressive attacks of some parties, and to give to liberty durable securities, by causing it to rest on power firmly and vigilantly exercised. You add, with reason, that the concession of a principle, or the sacrifice of individuals, is always ineffectual in the face of popular movements, and that a Government which respects itself ought to yield neither to pressure, to excitement, nor to revolt. This opinion is mine, and I am happy to find that it is shared in by your constituents, as it is, I am sure, by the majority of the Chamber and of the country."

The ceremony of inaugurating the port for the navy of the North German Confederation, situate at the mouth of the river Jahde, took place June 18, in presence of the King of Prussia. His Majesty, in his speech on the occasion, said: "My late lamented brother long ago originated the plan of constructing a harbor for vessels of war on the German coast. Now we have achieved it through the cooperation of my federal ally, the Grand Duke of OLDENBURG. Had it not been for his German patriotic feeling the execution of the work would have been impossible. I look forward with cheerful confidence to the further development and to the future of our young German navy."

The Pope is said to be engaged in superintending the compilation, by several writers, of a work on the Catholic episcopate, showing the eminent services it has rendered to the Papacy. The Holy Father wished to postpone the secret consistory. There are, however, so many dioceses without Bishops, that delay might create disorder in the Church; hence the consistory will assemble in the first week in July, when will be confirmed the nomination of Bishops to the vacant sees and the delivery of an allocution by the Pope referring to passing events. The creation of Cardinals is deferred till September.

AFFAIRS IN FRANCE.

End of the Riots—After-Scenes of the Disturbances—What American Prisoners Experienced—A Night of Horror—Contemplated Political Concessions—Letter from Victor Hugo—Theatrical, Musical and Personal Gossip.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Wednesday, June 16, 1869.

The riotings consequent upon the elections are over, and we have again relapsed into a state of perfect tranquillity. Neither in Paris nor in the Provinces is there to be discovered any disposition to continue a state of things which was objectless, if we are to exonerate the Government from the suspicion of having created it for the purpose of weakening the effect of the late Democratic victories. While the Paris riots are attributed to foreign influences in the absence of anything more plausible, by some to ORLEANS, and by others to Prussian gold, one thing remains certain, and that is, that the Government could at any time have put an end to the disgraceful scenes which have agitated and disgraced the capital. The moment that it brought out the military to crush the rioters, they vanished from public view. Why was not this done until heavy loss had been inflicted on the trade of the capital and the public had become thoroughly alarmed? The question is easier asked than answered. The system of government under which we live here is not to be judged as to its motives or its means by any regular principles of action. A great electoral defeat could not be dealt with, like any of the ordinary occurrences which trouble Ministerial projects and arrangements. The old dodge—the spectre rouge—was therefore resorted to, but the farce this time has not been as successful as formerly, for while every one admits that the events of the past week are utterly inexcusable, but few saddle the blame of them on those whom the Government intended should bear it—the Democratic Party. The arrest of the editors of the Revell, the Rappel and other journals, and the announcements by the semi-ministerial organs of documents going to show the existence of a political conspiracy, bring no stronger amount of conviction with them. The fact that no party but the Government had anything to gain by these riots, and the certainty that it could have suppressed them at any moment it pleased without the effusion of a drop of blood, are in themselves sufficient to disprove the impression sought to be created that a revolutionary movement was seriously contemplated.

The manner in which the persons have been dealt with who have been arrested in connection with the Paris riots would tend still further to confirm the belief that it has been intended to give the capital a lesson for the democratic tendencies which it evinced in the recent elections. If the real authors of these disturbances—the thieves and cut-throats of the banlieue, and who did not amount to more than from three to four hundred in number—but few, if any, have been imprisoned. They were well known to the Police, and were allowed to escape, while simple lookers-on, or persons going peacefully about their business, were pounced upon, brutally treated and subjected to several days' incarceration. Of these 864 were sent to the the Fort of Bicetre on Friday, the 11th of June. On the following day, Saturday, 473 were dispatched there, so that on the same night the aggregate number of prisoners confined in the fortress was 1,337. Among these were numbers of persons whose dress and appearance should at once have exempted them from all suspicion of being wilfully concerned in any attempt to disturb the public peace. Many were well-known citizens, and some of them even subordinate officials. In general these persons were attired in evening costume, and were arrested as they were leaving the theatres or the houses at which they had been dining or passing the evening. It seems to me that a short examination of the prisoners of this class ought to have insured their immediate release. Such, however, was not the case. The great majority of them were detained in the fortress for several days, exposed to all the hardships of insufficient food and impure air, and all the anxieties of a situation aggravated by the impression that the Government really felt itself in danger and that it might be some time before they could have an opportunity of establishing their innocence.

Of course, among the crowds of idle and curious spectators who were nightly attracted to the scenes of these disturbances were numbers of our countrymen. Several of them paid the penalty of their indiscretion by being knocked down and trampled upon, while others were arrested and conveyed to prison. Of these latter, the American Minister has been called upon to intervene for, and has obtained the release of three. Their names are J. Q. A. WARREN, of Boston, GEORGE GREEN and MORRIS BROWN. I have seen Mr. WARREN since his release, and his experience of ministerial promptness and prison amenities in France are sufficiently interesting to justify me in relating them, the more especially as they may serve to convert those who are sighing to confer upon the United States the blessings of imperialism.

EXPERIENCES OF AMERICANS.

Mr. WARREN states that as he was proceeding along the Boulevard Montmartre on Thursday evening, the 10th, in company with another American, Mr. CHARLES B. GOODWIN, he saw the Police chasing the crowd and they turned into a side street, the Rue Richelieu, to get out of the way. They had not got far when they heard the beat of a drum. This was followed by a rush of Police agents, and before they had time to remonstrate or to state who they were, they were both struck several times and Mr. WARREN was knocked down. Mr. GOODWIN owed his exemption from further ill-usage and imprisonment to the fact of his wearing the ribbon of the Legion of Honor, but Mr. WARREN, as he was trying to rise to his feet, was seized and dragged to the Mairie in the Rue Drouot. When he arrived there he found the large court-yard full of prisoners and policemen. After a delay of about half an hour he was taken to the Inspector's room and searched. All his papers and money were taken from him. He had at the time two hundred francs in paper and about one hundred and eighty francs in gold. After his name, address and signalement had been taken down, his papers, and, as he supposed his money, were replaced in his pockets, but he discovered subsequently that his funds had not been restored. A further examination was made of his person for weapons, after which he was transferred to another room, which was crowded with prisoners of almost every station in life. After remaining there half an hour the prisoners were formed into a body numbering about seven hundred, and marched, guarded by soldiers and policemen, to the conciergerie at the other side of the river. This was about 1 o'clock at night. During the march the utmost brutality was exercised toward the prisoners, and they were driven and pushed along like a herd of cattle. Mr. WARREN was so badly bruised and hurt that he had to be supported by two of the prisoners. His shirt and clothes were covered with blood from the effect of blows which had been wantonly inflicted upon him in the yard of the Mairie by one of the sergents de ville. After they reached the conciergerie, about 3 in the morning, he fainted away and was conveyed for the night to a separate cell, where he was attended by the surgeon of the prison, who administered chloroform and stimulants to him. He remained in the conciergerie with the other prisoners until 7 o'clock on Friday evening, and they had nothing during all this time but a little soup of the weakest kind and some hard bread. As evening approached they were informed that they were about to be transferred to the fort at Bicetre, on learning which Mr. WARREN managed to get a scrap of paper and wrote a letter to Dr. JOHNSTON, of the Boulevard Haussmann, informing him of his position. The doctor immediately forwarded it to Mr. WASHBURNE, and at 12:30 the same night Mr. MOORE, Assistant Secretary to the Legation, went to the Préfecture and demanded his release. He was told that it was then too late to do anything in the matter, but that it would be attended to early in the morning.

Shortly after he had dispatched this note to Dr. JOHNSTON, Mr. WARREN, with the other prisoners, were transferred in the close prison carriages to the fort at Bicetre. They were kept standing in one of the casemates there, suffering from the heat and thirst consequent upon overcrowding, until nearly midnight. The roll was then called, and the prisoners were marched, night at a time, accompanied by a file of soldiers, to the Inspector's room, in another building, where their names, addresses and personal descriptions were entered in a book. This done, they were conveyed to a second casemate and in proceeding to it each prisoner stopped by order and picked up a bundle of straw, which with a blanket, was to constitute his bed. There they were left in quietness for the rest of the night, but without food or drink. The heat and odor of the place were insufferable, and were aggravated by the fact that all the necessities of nature had to be provided for in that crowded apartment. To men accustomed to every luxury, as many of those confined there were, the sufferings endured during this memorable night must have been a terrible ordeal. It is stated that three of the prisoners died at the conciergerie, while at Bicetre a fourth lost his senses and committed suicide.

On Saturday noon an order reached the fort directing the release of Mr. WARREN. He was summoned to the directors' room, and the formality of entering in a book his name, personal description and address in Paris having been again gone through, he was told that he would be released the same evening. He was then taken back to the casemate, where he received a little food, and about 5 o'clock he was released and escorted to the railway by a corporal. Fortunately a little silver sufficient to pay his fare, which he had in one of his pockets, had escaped or had not tempted the cupidity of his captors, and he got back to Paris rejoiced that his adventure had had so speedy a termination. Since his return he has been taking steps to recover the money of which he was deprived by the Police, but I am afraid without much chance of success.

Two other American citizens, Mr. GEORGE GREEN and Mr. MORRIS BROWN, who were thrown into prison under circumstances similar to those which I have narrated, have also been released through the interference of Mr. WASHBURNE. It is due to the authorities to say that they threw no obstacles in the way of these gentlemen communicating with the Legation. The Liberté speaks of another claimant for the intervention of the Minister, a M. ALBERT DE G——, who asked its reporter in the prison to request of Mr. WASHBURNE to intercede in his behalf, but as he has since been liberated without his interference, it is to be presumed that he obtained his release through other influences to which he had a more legitimate claim.

The ten juges d'instruction who have been appointed to take the informations in the cases of the prisoners connected with the recent disturbances are proceeding actively with their work, and the number of prisoners in the conciergerie and Bicetre is being daily diminished. M. DE GONET is specially charged with the examination of the persons who have been arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the plot to create the riots, and among whom are several well-known journalists. Documents are said to have been discovered which leave no doubt of the guilt of these parties, but the public are incredulous on the point. In the meanwhile the effect of the proceedings taken against the Democratic journalists is to practically kill their publications. The printers of the Revell and Rappel refuse to continue the work for fear of prosecution, and both journals have accordingly ceased to appear. This is one great object gained to the Government by the riots, which I persist in believing were, if not originated, tolerated by it for several days with the view of securing a foundation for these proceedings, and curing the Parisians of their radical proclivities.

The Patrie, acting upon the same imaginations, counts up the cost of these alleged Democratic excesses. "In four days," it says, "the rente fell one per cent., which makes, on a capital of from eleven to twelve millions, a loss of one hundred and nineteen millions. Other securities have suffered still more, and if we calculate at forty millards the various values of the Bourse, the net loss to the public fortune may be estimated at four hundred millions." The absurdity of such reasoning is manifest. As the Débats very properly observes, "it is just as if it was affirmed that because a certain individual lost 100,000 francs the previous night at his club, the public fortune was diminished by so much." As to the losses sustained by the cafés and other establishments, the case is different, for although the city is responsible for the actual damage done by the rioters, it will not pay the losses incurred by forcing them to shut up at an early hour of the evening.

THE CONTEMPLATED POLITICAL CONCESSIONS.

All sorts of rumors are afloat regarding the concessions which the Government feels it necessary to make as a consequence of the verdict given against it by the popular vote. In the organization of the Corps Legislatif, for instance, it is said some important changes will be effected. The Chamber is to have the right to elect its President, the liberty enjoyed by the Administration of changing the electoral circumscriptions is to be curtailed, and the number of Deputies is to be increased. It is also affirmed that the Senate is to be made elective, and is to be armed by the Conseils Generaux, and that the Parliamentary initiative is to be re-established. The Opposition Journals in noticing these rumors says that it is material to believe that the serious warning administration has more in the mind of the Government of the municipal franchises, of the reduction of certain taxes, and of the reduction of the import duties on wines, coal and other articles which enter specially into Paris consumption.

LETTER FROM VICTOR HUGO.

The author of the Miserables has addressed a letter to ALEXANDRE KAHN in reply to an inquiry upon his consistency thrown out by the latter, from which the following is worth extracting:

"I have been shown a page of yours, starting in itself, in which you describe me as having been constant in my visits to the Elysée. Permit me to say to you in all cordiality that this is an error. I went to the Elysée in all but four times. I might give you the dates. From the time of the discovery of the letter to EMILIA NEY, I never again set my foot there. In 1848 I was merely liberal. It was in 1851 that I became republican. The truth appeared to me and vanquished me. After the 13th of June, when I saw the Republic down, its right struck me and touched me all the more because it was in its last agony. It was then that I went to it, and took my place on the weak side."

Alas! that so few should have imitated this example of political generosity.

LAYING OF THE FRENCH TRANSATLANTIC CABLE.

The Great Eastern is to leave Brest on Monday next, the 21st, to lay the French Transatlantic Cable. The Company has issued a great number of invitations for the ceremonies attending her departure. All the leading Paris journalists and the correspondents of the New-York papers are included in the list. Their railway and hotel expenses are to be defrayed by the Company. They leave Paris on Saturday night, and on Sunday are to be entertained at a grand banquet in the Salle de Venise at Brest. On Monday they are to be conveyed on a steamer to the Great Eastern to witness her departure, and on the same night will return to Paris.

DEATHS OF EMINENT MEN.

Among the recent deaths here are those of M. HESSE, the well-known historical painter, and M. REBS DE ST. FELIX D'AMOURDUZ, who was better known in the literary world under the name of JULES DE ST. FELIX. HESSE was a pupil of Baron GROS, and was one of the last representatives of the school of the Empire.

THEATRICAL NEWS.

The artists of the Comedie Française were, it seems, so well pleased with the results of their provincial tour last year that they are going to repeat it this Summer. Among those who are to compose the troops are Mmes. FAVRE and ARNOULD PLESSY, and M.M. REGNIER, DELAUNAY and TALBOT. ALEXANDRE DUMAS fils is engaged in a three-act piece for M. MONTIGNY. The Polish Jew, a drama in five acts, by M.M. ECKMANN and CHATRIANT, is the last novelty at that enterprising little establishment, the Theatre de Cluny. Eight of the Paris theatres are already closed for the Summer. A number of others will speedily follow their example.

MUSICAL.

M. BONETTI, the well-known chef d'orchestre, is dead. A couple of years since he composed for the Association of Artists a musical map which is very much esteemed by connoisseurs. M. PERRIN has engaged for the opera a couple of new singers, of whom great things are said. One of them, quite a young girl, Mlle. REVOUX, has a voice like that of Mme. SASS, and will probably make her début in the Africaine. The other is a star tenor, who has been discovered by M. REBAL.

PERSONAL.

General FRENCHER is expected here, and I may add that his arrival is anxiously looked for, in connection with the affairs of the Transcontinental Railway, on which it is hoped he may be able to throw some light.

ENGLAND AND MEXICO.

Parliamentary Reference to International Relations.

In the House of Commons, June 17, Mr. S. BEAUMONT asked the Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs what obstacles stood in the way of the establishment of diplomatic relations between this country and the Republic of Mexico.

Mr. OTWAY said the relations between this country and Mexico remained in the same position as when the noble Lord the late Foreign Secretary replied to a precisely similar question put to him by Mr. KINGLAKE, when a member of this House. Although it was to be regretted the Government had not by diplomatic intercourse any means of aiding the very large British interests at present in Mexico, the cause rested with the Mexican Government, which refused to have diplomatic intercourse with Powers as had recognized the de facto Government of Mexico which preceded it. The British Consul having been denied jurisdiction, the British Legation was withdrawn, and although the Government was in no way disposed to renew official intercourse with the Republic, the House would doubtless be of opinion that the first steps toward the renewal of that intercourse could not with propriety come from Her Majesty's Government.

BRITISH TRADE.

The Commercial Treaty with France in Parliament.

In the House of Commons, June 17, the evening sitting was opened by Mr. S. HILL with a motion for the appointment of a Select Committee to inquire into the operation of the Commercial Treaty with France, particularly as it affects the silk manufacture in this country. He condemned the treaty as entirely wanting in reciprocity, and quoted a mass of statistics to illustrate the injury it had inflicted on the trade of Coventry and Macclesfield. He was seconded by Mr. EATON, and Mr. BROCKLEHURST and Mr. CHADWICK, the members for Macclesfield, advocated an inquiry, but disclaimed all desire to return to protection. Mr. WHITEHOUSE claimed that it should embrace all the manufactures affected by the treaty, which, he contended, were equally affected by its one-sidedness; and Mr. CROSS also supported the motion.

Mr. BAGNOT, after defending the general policy of the treaty, denied that it was responsible for the suffering, which he admitted. This he attributed to a combination of the dearness of material, the closing of the American market by the civil war, the American tariff and the changed of fashion. The French trade had suffered in the same way, for though the importation to this country had increased, the aggregate amount of French exports had rather fallen off. Our silk trade was more liberally treated by the treaty than cotton or woolens. As to an inquiry, all the facts were known and it could lead to no practical result, he saw no use in granting it. But if there were to be an inquiry at all it ought not to be confined to one trade, and he promised that the Government would seize any opportunity of negotiating for a reduction of the duties.

Mr. HEWDEGATE maintained that the treaty had been concluded hurriedly and without sufficient inquiry, and dilated on its effects on the currency. Mr. C. BERTHEUX showed how it had prevented the perfection of our manufactures, and the art education of our artisans; and Mr. MUNTZ declared that there was nothing exceptional in the condition of the silk trade, for every branch was suffering, and there had been equal distress in Coventry before the treaty. Mr. MUNDELLA agreed entirely with Mr. BAGNOT as to the causes of the distress and the effects of the treaty. Mr. CRUM-EWING and Mr. M. PHILLIPS also made some observations, and on a division the motion was rejected by 166 to 101.

RUSSIA AND THE EAST.

The Czar's Oriental Policy—Speech of Ambassador Ignatieff.

At the recent banquet to General IGNATIEFF, Ambassador of the Russian Court at Constantinople, the General made the following speech:

M. Bouteneff, who has been a diplomatic agent in the East, and M. Novikoff, who has long lived in Constantinople, are able to appreciate the difficult position of the representative of Russia in Turkey. I cannot accept your eulogies as a compliment to me individually. I only see in them your approval of the pains I have taken to execute with zeal, conscientiousness, and exactitude the plans of our well-beloved Sovereign. If I have any merit, it is only that of having been the faithful interpreter of the Imperial wishes. In Europe and in Turkey people are accustomed to calumniate Russia, to attribute to her designs the most subtle and impious, the wildest ambition and the most rashness action. Some do this from hatred or envy, others by design; some simply from the habit they have acquired of lightly repeating worst phrases, of believing the articles of hostile journals and the silly stories related about Russia, without taking the trouble to study us, or to try to penetrate our real motives.

We are not understood, and that is why people will not believe in our disinterestedness. Most people form an evil opinion of us from ignorance, without having to make a distinction between the Russia of former times and the Russia of to-day. Renovated by the position given her by the Tsar Emancipator, Russia has no desire for conquest, no need of military renown, of which she already possesses an ample share, they neither seek to rob nor injure her neighbors; but, at the same time, will not allow herself to be affronted with impunity. Influence based on conquest cannot be lasting, but should take its rise rather in moral prestige and intellectual and material bonds. And in this respect an important part is left to be played by Odessa.

There was a time when Odessa was looked upon as a cosmopolitan city, separated by vast space from the rest of Russia. To-day united by railroads to the remainder of the Empire, thanks to the labors of his Excellency, General Kotzebue, she is now an integral part of that Russia to whose heart she has drawn near. Odessa is Russia's advanced post, with regard to the European East, and ought to be its worthy representative. So let the dwellers in the East come and admire your harbor, your prosperity, your hospitality and the excellent organization of your town. They will find at Odess

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

An Englishman's Reply to Senator Sumner—The Practical English View of the Question—A Remonstrance more in Sorrow than in Anger.

To Hon. Charles Sumner:

SIR: Your speech on the "Alabama Claims Convention" has caused much anxiety to good men in this country. They fear that it implies a settled policy to keep open a controversy with England, and perhaps at some future day to pave the way for a rupture. Permit me, as one who knows America and values its friendship, to address a few words to you on the line of argument you have taken on this disputed question. I am emboldened to do so because the closing portion of your speech testifies to a desire for peace and amity with England, and because I cannot think that a man of your vast political experience and earnestness of purpose can wilfully widen the breach that already exists between the two nations.

I will not attempt to go into a nice disquisition on international law; enough has already been written on that score, and the public mind in both countries has been confused rather than enlightened by the wearisome subtleties of lawyers. What I wish to do is to convey to you briefly what is the practical view of the subject taken here by upright men who are anxious to act justly, and would willingly make any reasonable concession to America sooner than have a rankling sore disturbing the harmony between the two countries.

I will begin by premising that the vast majority of the people of Great Britain have an earnest desire to maintain friendship with the United States; they have not the remotest wish to figure or insult your country in any way; they have none of that animosity which, alas! so often finds an expression in the American Press, but they have a sort of bewildered feeling at the reluctance of your people to meet them half way in their amicable sentiments; they are baffled in their attempts to comprehend why it is that America should show such soreness against their old mother country, for they feel that they have not acted so as to deserve this feeling.

With respect to what are called the "Alabama depredations," there is little difference of opinion in this country among intelligent men; they are viewed with regret, and reprobation, and I hor to assure you that it never was the general sentiment of this country to view these acts with complacency. All through your civil war there was a large party who condemned the fitting out of Confederate cruisers in this country, and had International law been sufficiently clear on the subject, most certainly these acts would not have occurred; but, rightly or wrongly, our Government conceived that they were precluded by the provisions of International law from active interference; the case was far more complicated than people on your side are willing to admit, and our Government, with every desire to do the right, found it literally impossible to avoid giving offence to your people. With the light now shed upon the subject, it is certain that our Government would be more prompt in dealing with any future case; but when your civil war broke out there was the greatest difficulty in inducing the public mind about the legal aspect of such questions, and it was only by painful experience that we found out both what was due to other nations, and what powers our own Government might rightfully exercise over its subjects.

It is now very generally admitted, however, that the Americans have a real grievance against us as respects the Alabama and other Confederate cruisers, and the majority of our people would readily consent to pay any fair compensation for actual damage done to your trade, if such damage could be assessed by fair arbitrament. We do not grudge the money; we wish to remove a grievance and restore amity, and many even of those among us who fail to see that our Government committed any breach of international law are quite ready to pay a bill of damages if such shall be awarded against us.

But we feel that the question is too complicated to be decided ex parte; we wish it submitted to a competent tribunal, where all collateral considerations may be fairly and equitably weighed. Such a tribunal was provided by the Convention entered into with Earl RUSSELL; and it has caused as much surprise as grief in this country that the convention negotiated by your special envoy sent over to England should have been so summarily and so contemptuously discarded.

Our Government made, as we thought, and still think, large concessions; and we left every fairly debatable point to arbitration. We had every chance of being mulcted in a heavy sum, and we did not expect a kindred and Christian people would so flatly reject the only rational way in which nations averse to war can honorably settle their disputes.

But it seems from your speech that it is no longer the "Alabama question," but our recognition of the belligerent rights of the South that constitutes the gravamen of your complaint against England. You charge us with having immensely prolonged the war and doubled the cost of subduing the South, and on that score you set down to our debit the larger half of your national debt, and you speak as though no settlement should be made with us unless we assume some scores of millions of your debt, with a contrite apology besides for our wicked assistance to the rebels!

Such charges and such claims fill us with amazement. Up till quite lately it was not even understood in this country that our proclamation of neutrality was believed to be a wrong by the American people. No doubt Mr. SEWARD often complained of it in his dispatches, but this was thought to be the result of some peculiarity peculiar to himself, and not to reflect the unanimous opinion of the American nation. We did not think it possible that your people could be serious in objecting to our doing what seemed to us to be an unavoidable act, as it was just so far as we concerned. I state this fact in order to bring out in bold relief the extraordinary difference of opinion that prevails on the two sides of the Atlantic, and to indicate the importance of looking at these subjects from both points of view. I repeat that during the progress of your civil war, and for some years afterward, it did not even occur to the British public that our Government could have done otherwise than recognize that a state of war existed in your country, and that British subjects must be put under the usual neutral obligations. So doubtless some of us did think that the Queen's proclamation might have been issued with greater propriety after the arrival of your ambassador. Some of us think that there was undue precipitance about the measure; but even the warmest friends of the North felt that the step had to be taken sooner or later, and never dreamed that your country would make it a grievance against us that we recognized a state of war at all.

Slowly you forced the circumstances in which England was placed when your civil war broke out. She had an immense maritime commerce with both sections of your country, more especially with the Southern half, and it was necessary that our Government should warn shipowners of the risk they ran in trading with blockaded ports. Had it not warned them that a state of war existed, and imposed neutral obligations upon them, it would have been involved at once in endless complicated claims against your Government.

Further, it fills with astonishment all thinking men here—and I may add throughout Europe—that you should impute to us as a crime that which your Government had already done itself. President LINCOLN's proclamation of blockade, as all the world knows, was issued before our declaration of neutrality, and from the very first his Government treated the insurrection as a civil war; from the very first it conceded belligerent rights to the South; and surely we are not criminals for following the example of your own Government. Surely we are not to regard the Confederates as bandits and pirates, when your own Government never dreamed of doing so; and yet this is what you appear to think we should have done.

You seem to forget that when this unhappy war broke out it was the general opinion of Europe that the United States would be divided into two confederations, and this was apart from all predilections for either side. It was simply founded on the fact that one-half your territory, containing one-third of the population, seceded from the Union, and European nations doubted either your power or willingness to subjugate that portion by force of arms. They scarcely thought it was consistent with your form of government to attempt it, for they looked upon your federation as a voluntary union of States, and they understood the corner-stone of your system to be that "all just Governments derive their powers from the free consent of the governed."

When, therefore, they saw your great common wealth splitting up into two halves of nearly equal size, they felt they could not deny to the South the belligerent rights it actually exercised. Anticipating in all probability the creation of two confederations, they desired to preserve strict neutrality between them, so as to leave neither of them just ground for recrimination afterward.

No doubt these views appear obsolete now; success has lent its prestige to the claims of the North; but surely, when you criticise the conduct of our Government in 1861, you must place yourself in our attitude at that time, and survey the horizon as it then spread out before us; and maybap it may not be amiss as well to refresh yourself with a retrospect of Northern opinion at that date, and, if I mistake not, you will find that no small section of your own country men then held that they had neither the right nor the ability to coerce the South back into the Union.

But England is the only foreign nation that sinned against you in this concession of belligerency! Your speech takes no account of France, who did exactly the same—there is no word of dividing the half cast of the war between France and England! And yet you cannot deny that, in all respects, France is as culpable as ourselves, if your view of international obligations is correct—nay, almost all nations of Christendom are, for they nearly all followed our example, and it certainly would be some consolation for us if you put us all in the pillory together. We could then keep each other just a little in countenance.

England, however, must bear the blame alone, because she was the pioneer of concession, and yet refused to hold in front of her the shield of her great name. Your speech seems to put down spitefully every attempt at explanation, [illegible] could not review the sentence after it had been [illegible]. Also, that the power of the company to [illegible] the charter from the State has been granted by the recent amendments of the State Legislature and by general orders from Albany, the penalty now being not expulsion, but remission after enlistment; that the penalty imposed by law held a fine, no company had a right to sell any member, in violation, and finally that membership in the National Guard is a "franchise" which the Courts have a right to expain any attempt to take it away.

Mr. John Fowler, Jr., appeared for the defendant, and argued that the plaintiff had not been regularly transferred on the time of his expulsion, and that the same was in strict accordance with the bylaws of the company; that the disapproval of the defendant had been made upon conditions imposed upon certain orders from headquarters, and that upon their abrogation he was free to approve of the company's action; that the whole affair was one entirely of military discretion, and that the Courts had no jurisdiction to interpose in the matter.

The Court stated that the questions were novel and of the law doubtful; that the expulsion having been for offences committed prior to any alleged transfer, it was questionable whether the right to punish thereby exclusion did not still remain; that they would therefore deny the motion, staying, however, all proceedings in the case, so as to have the matter brought up to the General Term without prejudice to the rights.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM—JUNE 28.

Before Judge McCunn.

[illegible] vs. Daniel Cohen.—The plaintiff, a comely-looking woman of 24 years, and the defendant, a youth of the age of about seventeen, for damages to the amount of $5,000 for an alleged breach of promise of marriage. Plaintiff alleged in her affidavit, that believing that defendant would marry her, she yielded to his seductive blandishments and fell a prey to him. Plaintiff's counsel procured the order to arrest in the case, and, with the defendant arrested and held in default of $5,000 bail. The case now came before the Court on motion to vacate the order of arrest. Defendant's counsel, J. H. Connell, Esq., moved to vacate on the ground that no complaint being served, there was no allegation of special damages, and that, in the affidavit on which the order was granted, no allegation was set up that an action had been commenced.

After argument the Court granted the motion to vacate the order and discharged the prisoner, with $10 costs to motion.

J. H. Connell, Esq., for the motion; Bumble & Englehardt, Esq., opposed.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

Before Commissioner Shields.

ARREST OF COUNTERFEITERS.

On Saturday last the Marshal's officers arrested three men named Robert Henning, Vincent C. Lawrence and George Primrose, who were charged with counterfeiting $5 bills on the Jewett City National Bank. Nearly $400 worth of fraudulent money was found in their possession by Deputy Marshal Dryden, together with several counterfeiting implements. Henning was captured at Mott Haven, where he represented to be the headquarters of the gang. Lawrence is a barber by occupation, was arrested at the Pt. Richmond House. The trio were jointly committed.

LOTTERY DEALERS CHEATING THE GOVERNMENT.

A large number of lottery dealers who were recently arrested on a charge of not paying the special tax required by the revenue act, were present for examination, but owing to the absence of witnesses, their cases were remanded till Wednesday.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Bedford.

A VISIT FROM GENERAL BUTLER.

Shortly after the opening of the Court a visit was made by General B. F. Butler, accompanied by Judge Barnard. He remained only a short time.

ASSAULT WITH LIME.

Allan Kleinhamer was fined $10 for having thrown a large quantity of slaked lime on the head and face of Mrs. Caroline Schumann, of No. 323 Fifth-street, in May last. It is alleged that there was sulphate of copperas mixed with the lime, which, the prisoner, unfortunately for the injured woman, had thrown. Her injuries were so serious that was first expected she would be blinded for life. The prisoner, who pleaded guilty, requested that a slight punishment should be imposed on her assailant.

POLICE COURTS.

Before Justice Hogan.

FELONIOUS ASSAULT.

John Sweeney, who was arrested on the 18th inst. on a charge of having assaulted and stabbed John Dugan in Mott-street, was arraigned yesterday. Dugan has been in the hospital, and appeared in the Court yesterday for the first time. Sergeant Charles McDonald, of the Sixth Precinct, testified that he saw the prisoner struggling with the complainant and heard some one cry out "I'm stabbed." He had then arrested Sweeney and sent the injured man to the hospital. The Magistrate held the accused for trial, and sent the complainant to the House of Detention.

LARCENY ON SHIPBOARD.

John B. Hoe, mate on board the steamer Bartlan, at Pier No. 2 North River, accused Peter Brown, one of the deck hands, yesterday morning, in the act of lowering a bag over the side to a boat in waiting. Mr. Hoe searched the forecastle and discovered an empty ten chest. He therefore caused Brown's arrest for the larceny, and the Magistrate held him for trial.

Essex Market—Mansfield, Justice.

BURGLARY BY A BOY.

A boy named Charles Hart was committed for trial for having stolen $40 worth of clothing, the property of George H. Hawkins, of No. 219 Second-avenue. He was detected in the act of climbing over the fence into a room in the rear of Hawkins's premises, with another boy, named John O'Neill, and on being arrested by Officer Little, of the Seventeenth Precinct, the clothing was found in his possession.

EXCISE CASES.

Hinnick or Henry Roech, of No. 314 Water-street, was complained of by Officer Wm. A. Lane for having sold a glass of ale on Sunday. A similar charge was made against Archibald McQuail, of No. 13 Catharine-slip, by Officer Edward Newman, of the Seventh Precinct. Both cases were held to counter, in default of bail.

Officer Charles Wilson brought in Peter Gurvy for being engaged in selling liquor in East Twelfth-street without a license. The prisoner was reprimanded and discharged.

A VICIOUS SON.

Mrs. Emeline Ivers appeared against her son, Chas. Ivers, charging him with disorderly conduct and with causing her agonized deal of trouble and anxiety. At her request he was committed to the care of the Juvenile Association.

SECOND BOARD—SUNDAY, JUNE 28—P. M.

The sales of Gold to-day were at 137½ to 137¼ ¢ cent., closing about 137½ bid, and 137¾ asked, at the close of the regular Board. At noon the Treasury Office sold $1,000,000 on sealed proposals, amounting, in the aggregate, to $1,800,000. The awards were $900,000 to Messrs. HENRY CLEWS & Co., at 137.49 up to 137.54 ¢ cent, and $90,000 to Messrs. KENNEDY, HUTCHINSON & CO., at 137.51 ¢ cent. These figures were very close upon the market at the hour, but the subsequent sales, owing to an unfavorable turn in Money after 1 o'clock, and to the dullness in Exchange, were a fraction cheaper. The Stock Brokers spoke to have pressured too heavily upon the 7 ¢ cent. rate for Money, on call, so current on Saturday, and although considerable sums were loaned at this rate through the forenoon, it was soon after difficult to borrow at 10 ¢ cent., for 1 ¢ cent. Gold Interest, and the demand was so sharp at one time that a consideration of ⅛ ¢ ¢ cent. was paid to carry over stocks until to-morrow. At the very close the Commission fell to a sixteenth of one ¢ heat. The Public Funds were in fairly active request at all the Boards of the Exchange, although the volume of transactions is far less than in July, 1868, and February, 1869, movement. The 10-40s were a fraction stiffer than on Saturday, and the 6-20s ⅛ ¢ cent. lower. The State Bonds were also active; the Tennessees, now, fell back to 57¾@57⅞ ¢ cent. The North Carolinas were ¼@1 ¢ cent. cheaper. The Virginias and Louisianas steady. In Foreign Bills the Bankers were disposed to concede ⅛@3-16th of 1 ¢ cent. from the highest terms at the close of last week. London, 109½ 60 days; 110¼@⅝ short sight. The market repeated dull for the Bremen and Southampton steamer sailing to-morrow.

The Railway market opened with increased buoyancy at the morning Boards, and was even stronger after the adjournment up to 1 o'clock. New-York Central was sold as high as 196¾, and Hudson River 107¼; Michigan Southern 106¼, and the other Western Stocks in about the same proportion as compared with Saturday's sales. When the sudden turn in money was made known, the sales of these Stocks were run down from 1 to 1¼, and in some instances 2 ¢ cent., and the general look of the market at 3 o'clock was decidedly bearish. After the late Boards broke up the following quotations were made as compared with Saturday night:

The sudden change in Money from 7 ¢ cent. Currency interest to 7 ¢ cent. Gold and a commission to carry over Stocks a single day is not received on the Street as altogether rational. There would seem to have been some extra efforts made to place the rates on demand loan as low as possible, for effect upon the Railway speculation.

The following bids were made for the various Public Funds of the United States at the close of business:

The days business at the office of the United States Assistant Treasurer was as follows: Total receipts, $2,097,236; total payments, $2,543,898; balance, $67,228,490. The receipts include for Customs, $550,000; for Gold Notes, $665,000.

The Fort Wayne Company will pay their Quarterly Dividend of 2½ ¢ cent. on the 16th of July, and the transfer books will close on the 6th of July, to reopen on the 17th.

The Manhattan Savings Bank will pay Interest to its Depositors for 6 months on the 19th of July at the rate of 6 ¢ cent. ¢ annum.

The Phenix National Bank has declared a half-yearly Dividend of 4 ¢ cent.

There was much interest manifested on the Street this morning, and among the Banks in the Ocean Bank robbery—in its extent and particulars. The first wild rumor placed the total amount involved at two millions. This Afternoon the amount is brought down to $300,000, for part of which the Bank is not responsible to private parties who left their securities in the vault. On another page our reporters have furnished the latest as well as earliest details of this daring burglary.

The following was the condition of the Ocean National Bank, as reported to the Department on the 19th June. We condense the figures from the advertised Statement of that date:

Loans and discounts	$2,069,772
United States bonds at Washington	810,000

The Great Western Marine Insurance Company has declared a semi-annual dividend of six ¢ cent. We recently noticed the change in the Presidency of the Company. The complimentary correspondence between the Directory and the retiring President appears elsewhere in this morning's TIMES.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

OF SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD BONDS OF THE LAKE SUPERIOR AND MISSISSIPPI RAILROAD COMPANY FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND BONDS, FREE OF UNITED STATES TAX, secured by 1,000,000 acres of choice lands and by the earnings, the rolling stock and franchises, and yielding in currency nearly TEN PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

We recommend these bonds as a safe and profitable investment.

$1,000 bonds of 1873, yielding for per annum, if sold at present price, will buy $1,200 Lake Superior 7s, yielding $97 50 per annum—an increase of 45 per cent. in actual gold income.

Parties buying now at 95 and accrued interest in currency have the advantage of the Gold Coupon, due July 1, reducing actual cost of the bonds below 95.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

HENRI ROCHEFORT, of La Lanterne fame in France, has been found guilty of illegally introducing his journal into the country, and has been sentenced to three years' imprisonment, a fine of 3,000f., the forfeiture of his rights as a citizen for three years to vote or sit in the Corps Legislatif.

NAPOLEON visited the City of Beauvais on Sunday, and was enthusiastically received. He made two speeches, one in response to an address from the Mayor, and the other in reply to an address from the Bishop. He told the former that the prosperity of the city was due to the good order that had prevailed in France for the last eighteen years, and he assured the latter that if his prayers were heard "religion would be honored by a happy people and France would be great and prosperous."

An earnest effort is making in Ireland to obtain the release of Fenian prisoners from British prisons. Large meetings were held in Cork, Limerick, Ennis, Mullingar and Drogheda, on Sunday, and speeches were made and resolutions were passed advocating and demanding the immediate release of these prisoners.

An earthquake shock was felt at Bologna, Italy, yesterday.

The printers of Amsterdam have struck for higher wages and less hours of labor.

A battalion of soldiers in Barcelona have refused to take the oath prescribed by the Spanish Cortes.

The French Corps Legislatif was opened yesterday. In the absence of the Emperor, M. ROUHER, Minister of State, made the opening address.

CUBA.

The New Captain-General arrived at Havana yesterday, with a force of nine hundred regulars. The volunteers formally received him at the landing. Dispatches received in Washington by prominent Cubans state that the collisions are of almost daily occurrence in the Cinco Villas District, where the Spaniards have been concentrating. The Spanish army is suffering intensely from the cholera and yellow fever. The Cubans have taken Palmedes and captured all the provisions and arms stored there. The expedition which landed at Nuevas Grandes succeeded in joining the main body of the Cuban army with but little difficulty. The sailing of the Quaker City for the island from this City has been authoritatively contradicted. The filibusters were outwitted on Saturday evening by the Captain of the steamer Catharine Whiting, which was intended to convey them to their destination. She was taken in the Bay by a revenue cutter.

GENERAL.

The new ocean cable is coming along famously. Sunday evening seven hundred and seventy-five knots had been paid out by the Great Eastern, and the steamer was six hundred and ninety-seven knots from Brest. It is expected that the Island of St. Pierre will be reached some time early next week. Here the Great Eastern will drop the line and it will be taken up by the steamers Scandavia and Chiltern and carried to Duxbury, Mass. It is predicted that the shore end will be laid on the 1st of August.

Three men named WILEY, ALLEY and ECHISON have been on trial at Greensburg, Decatur County, Md., the past week, for the murder of one WOODWARD, in October last, during a fight at a political "jollification" meeting in Milford, Md. WILEY has been sentenced to imprisonment for life, and ALLEY to the penitentiary for two years. And in the case of ECHISON nolle prosequi has been entered.

Judge DRUMMOND, of Chicago, has decided that express companies have the right to forward letters accompanying consignments in unstamped envelopes. The case in which the decision was given was that of the Post Office Department against the United States Express, to recover the penalty prescribed by law for the alleged forwarding of mailable matter not inclosed in stamped envelopes.

A collision occurred on the Susquehanna Railroad, on Sunday, between a train of platform cars loaded with ties and a cattle train from Cincinnati, at a point between Colliers and Maryland, Otsego County, and the locomotive of each train and three cattle cars were badly smashed. The engineers and firemen saved themselves by jumping from the engines.

JULIA GIBBS and ELLEN WOODSON, both colored, fought a duel with clubs, seconds being present, at Richmond, Va., on Sunday. The woman ELLEN was so badly injured that she died on the field. Jealousy was the cause.

The storm of Sunday last was notable for the number of casualties that occurred in this vicinity during its progress. Long Island seems to have been most exposed to its ravages, and the shores of Westchester County upon the Sound. Two sloops were wrecked and three seamen lost; at Rockaway the guests of a hotel were thrown to the floor in the parlor in which they were assembled, and a gentleman from this City, caught on the beach, was struck by lightning and killed; and in many parts of Westchester County oxen were killed, trees uprooted, and other damage done. In Philadelphia there was quite a tornado.

A serious quarrel has arisen between the oystermen of Connecticut and Long Island, relative to the right to plant oysters in Huntington Bay. The Long Islanders contend that Connecticut does not own a foot of land in Huntington, or pay a cent of tax, yet by threats and force she has monopolized the oyster beds. The authorities have not yet taken any action in the matter.

The Canadians are to celebrate hereafter every year the 1st of July as "Dominion Day."

A Mrs. PHILLIPS, of Wilmington, Vt., is in jail, awaiting trial, in September, for firing a pistol at ALBOR E. WILDER, recently, in the course of a quarrel growing out of the latter's attempt to take away a horse which had been pledged him as security for a bad debt.

ALBERT WATERMAN, President of the Firemen's Insurance Company at Providence, R. I., died suddenly in his bed on Sunday night.

The wheat crop has nearly all been gathered in Maryland, and by the end of this week little will be left standing. Our exchanges speak of the yield as excellent.

Mr. SAMUEL C. FORD, of Philadelphia, has offered as a free gift a tract of land of not less than ten acres, at Olney, Twenty-second Ward, of that city, on the Second-street turnpike, for the buildings of Pennsylvania.

In the mines of the Pennsylvania Coal Company, at Pittston, all signs of the strike have disappeared. The Delaware and Hudson, and Delaware, Lackawanna, and Westmoreland Companies' men still stay out. A great number have obtained employment at other coal works, and many have gone to work building railroads. The resumption of work throughout the entire coal region has not been as general as previously reported.

A meeting of the members of the Library Company, of Philadelphia, will be held at noon to-day, at the library, to take action on the bequest of Dr. RUSH.

A collision occurred in the Sound early yesterday morning, off Stratford Light, during a dense fog, between the steamer Bristol, of the Fall River line, bound for this City, and the bark G. S. Brown, of Yarmouth, N. S., for Cow Bay. The bark was cut up and sunk, but the steamer sustained only trifling damage. The Captain and crew were taken up by the Bristol and brought to this City.

A heavy robbery was discovered yesterday morning at the Ocean Bank, which had taken place during the previous night. The vault had been forced open and a large amount of currency and Government bonds taken from the boxes deposited by customers. The loss of the bank was but $20,000.

Testimony was taken yesterday at the Essex Market Police Court in the case of GEORGE VERELAND, a wealthy resident of Greenville, N.J., who is charged with having abandoned his wife, Mrs. CAROLINE VERELAND, for several months.

The Board of Assistant Aldermen yesterday adopted the report of its Committee in favor of refusing Mr. MCVEANY's claim to a seat in the Board. The resolutions of the other Board, referring to the death of HENRY J. RAYMOND, were adopted unanimously.

At the Special Term of the Court of Oyer and Terminer, held yesterday, Judge CARDOZO delivered an elaborate charge to the Grand Jury, devoted chiefly to the O'Connor-Pearsall case. He asks an indictment against Mrs. MCGRAW, and enters into a long vindication of his judicial action in relation to the case.

Hon. DENIAS BARNES delivered an address last evening, at the Brooklyn Athenæum, on the "Great Bridge" which is to connect New-York and Brooklyn.

The College of St. Francis Xavier held its nineteenth annual Commencement last evening. Archbishop MCCLOSKEY presided.

The Woman's Suffrage Association held a meeting last evening in Bloomingdale, at which delegates were elected to the Saratoga Convention from the Ninth Congressional District.

Colored Grammar School No. 1, at No. 136 Mulberry-street, gave an exhibition yesterday.

Transactions in beef cattle yesterday were rather dull, with prices about at the figures of last week. The top prices were 15c.@15½c. ℔ lb. net weight for the best cattle. Most of the sales were made at about 12c.@14½c. ℔ lb. Good steers were sold for 15c.@16c. in many instances. The poorest lots, when mingled with some good cattle, were all sold at 12c.@12½c. ℔ lb. Calves are heavy, and selling moderately at 10c.@11½c. ℔ lb. for the best. There is more tone in the sheep market, with prices unchanged from last week's quotations. Prices range from 4c.@6c. ℔ lb live weight. Very few sheep were sold for over 6c. ℔ lb. Only a small proportion of the droves found a ready sale. Large numbers were worth not over 4c. ℔ lb. Lambs, 9c.@12c. ℔ lb. live weight. Swine are heavy, with prices moderately firm at 11c.@11½c. ℔ lb. for prime corn-fed dressed hogs. Live 9½c.@9¾c. ℔ lb.

The Administration and the Republican Party in Southern States.

In three of the States which are at present the scene of much political activity, the Republican Party is divided. Virginia, Tennessee and Texas exhibit, respectively, a contest between the supporters of a conciliatory policy and the advocates of proscription. WALKER and WELLS in Virginia; SENTER and STOKES in Tennessee; HAMILTON and DAVIS in Texas. All are Republicans; all have, in one way or another, a valid title to Republican support. But in each State the two candidates are sustained by different sections of the party—the main ground of difference being the policy to be pursued toward the class hitherto opposed to reconstruction and the party that enacted it. WALKER, SENTER and HAMILTON are, each in his State, as clearly entitled to be ranked as Republican candidates as their opponents, Messrs. WELLS, STOKES and DAVIS. The former may boast as properly as the others of the support of active, consistent and influential members of the party; and their individual position in relation to the party is not changed by the fact that their more liberal and more moderate views commend them to the favor of a large number of Democrats, who are prepared in good faith to comply with the conditions prescribed by the Reconstruction acts in connection with restoration to the Union.

The canvass in each of these States is marked by some peculiarities. The Virginia candidates alone are regular in the sense of having been duly nominated by Conventions. In the elements of regularity and the conditions of party fealty WALKER is not inferior to WELLS. His position is morally strengthened, moreover, by the fact that since his nomination on a platform favorable to the expurgation from the Constitution of the proposed disfranchising and disability clauses, WELLS, who was nominated on a proscriptive platform, has announced himself a convert to what, in the first instance, was a distinctive feature of the Walker creed. On this issue, if WELLS is sincere, there is no essential difference between himself and WALKER. Again, in Tennessee, neither candidate can claim the benefit of a regular nomination. Both SENTER and STOKES are self-nominated. The Convention which was called to make a nomination broke up in a row, and, in a party sense, neither of the candidates has any superiority over the other. They are separated, however, by a broad line on the subject of proscription. SENTER, with BROWNLOW at his back, and with CARL SCHURZ applauding BROWNLOW, has declared himself desirous of removing as speedily as possible the evidences of the proscriptive policy which has done so much to embitter the politics of Tennessee. In this respect the Senter section of the party holds the position taken by the Chicago Convention when it adopted the resolution introduced by CARL SCHURZ. STOKES, on the contrary, opposes any general measure of enfranchisement, and attempts to manufacture his quota of political capital out of the fact that the Democrats, instead of nominating a candidate, intend to help the Republicans who support SENTER. Yet, again, in Texas irregularity mars the claims of the only candidate who can pretend to have been nominated. HAMILTON put himself forward on a platform not unlike that of SENTER and WALKER. DAVIS, the opponent of HAMILTON, was nominated by a Convention, but a Convention that represented very imperfectly the Republicans of the State. Flake's Galveston Bulletin, a journal conspicuous for the courage and consistency of its loyalty, describes the aspect of the Texan canvass thus:

"We find two tickets in the field, one of which is self-constituted, the other nominated by an unrepresenting Convention. In one respect these gentlemen are alike—the loyal people of the State have nominated neither."

DAVIS, however, urges as an objection to HAMILTON, that, like SENTER and WALKER, his tolerant views have won over to him a certain amount of Democratic support.

From a Republican stand-point, the platforms on which WALKER, SENTER and HAMILTON stand are unobjectionable. They harmonize with the Chicago platform, and with the known desires and purposes of General GRANT, as evinced in his last communication to Congress. The Tennessee canvass has an aspect different from that of the two other States. It has nothing to do with reconstruction per se, but it has much to do with the harsh results of the method which events rendered necessary for bringing the State back into the Union. And it is due to SENTER to note the fact, that in advocating enfranchisement, he simply pursues the course which a powerful Republican element, led by the St. Louis Democrat, proposes to take in Missouri, and which a similar element, encouraged by Mr. GREELEY, proposes to adopt in West Virginia. To represent this element, whether in Tennessee or Missouri or West Virginia, as dubious in its party relations, is to sacrifice truth to a very paltry partisanship.

Judged by their attitude on the reconstruction question, the section of the party which nominated WALKER, and the section which supports HAMILTON, are unassailable. They are severally anxious for the restoration of Virginia and Texas on the basis laid down by Congress. They are prepared to comply with every requirement of the law. They recognise the Fifteenth Amendment as a necessary supplement to reconstruction, and will ratify it before seeking readmission. They sustain the policy of the Administration of General GRANT, and rely greatly upon the strength which is incident to concurrence with his views. They differ from the Republicans championed by Messrs. WELLS and DAVIS only in uniting universal amnesty with universal suffrage. And the same dividing line will probably appear in Mississippi, where a Republican split is apparently inevitable. The differences are of course unfortunate. But they do not imply criminality on either side, nor do they afford to either the slightest pretext, in equity, for attempting to read the other out of the party. WALKER is as good a Republican as WELLS—SENTER as STOKES; and nothing can be gained by acting on the opposite supposition.

For many reasons the efforts that are being made at Washington to involve the Administration in a contest between two sections of the party are to be deprecated. If it were possible, by the legitimate exercise of Government influence, to heal the breach in Tennessee or Texas, and reunite the party on a platform in accordance with General GRANT's proclaimed opinions, we should deem the object worthy of energetic and persistent effort. But STOKES is as much an obstacle to party unity in Tennessee as SENTER; DAVIS blocks the path to unity in Texas as completely as HAMILTON. As between either of these contestants, then, the Administration cannot be properly asked to interfere. It ought not to be called upon to interfere against its own policy, of which in Tennessee SENTER is in the main a representative, and with which in Virginia WALKER is identified; nor can it with propriety exert itself to defeat STOKES or DAVIS or WELLS, who are the candidates of a powerful body of Republicans. The matter belongs to the party in the States concerned, and to its patriotism and intelligence the final decision should be left. The men who visit Washington to solicit a snap judgment in their favor are only adding to the mischief.

Close Communication Between New-York and Brooklyn.

Hon. DENIAS BARNES, in his address to the people of Brooklyn on the subject of the proposed bridge over East River, said some very sensible things about the mutual necessities of New-York and Brooklyn, and said them, too, in very forcible language. Among the most striking of these statements was the one showing that while the centre of New-York trade is annually going northward, the efforts of Brooklyn are solely toward communication with the southern part of the City. New-York merchants and Brooklyn purchasers, with like culpable indifference, permit ferry and stage corporations to keep them separated by unnecessary miles of distance and precious hours of time without the slightest reason. The proposed bridge is advocated by Mr. BARNES as one means of bringing Brooklyn buyers and metropolitan merchants in closer communication; but he recognises this as only one of many methods of producing this desirable result. We have before urged the necessity of a ferry from Brooklyn to the upper landings on the New-York side; and Mr. BARNES' whole speech is advocacy of the bridge is a repetition of these arguments. There is little hope that the Union Ferry Company will make the desired improvements in their routes until legislative enactment or rival companies shall compel it. But is there not reason to hope that some enterprising private company may see the fortune to be made in establishing means of communication between Brooklyn and upper New-York, and forthwith furnish the same? Any of the several craft which gain a precarious living by making daily excursions to the Fishing Banks can, during the Summer months, make a handsomer return by running hourly between South or Hamilton Ferries and the Grand and Twenty-third-street Ferries on the New-York side. Will not some of them try the experiment? It would prove to a regular ferry line a better route than either the Staten Island, Coney Island or Catharine Ferries.

British Comment on the Alabama Question.

Elsewhere in this morning's issue will be found a very noteworthy letter from a well-known British publicist, in reply to the speech of Mr. SUMNER on the Alabama Claims Convention. It professes to be, and we see no reason to doubt that it is, "the practical view of the subject taken by upright men in Great Britain, who desire to act justly;" and it is precisely from that class of men that the analogous class of Americans are desirous to hear.

According to "Britannicus," it is now "very generally admitted that the Americans have a real grievance against us as respects the Alabama and other Confederate cruisers," which grievance will be settled by paying, in money, "any fair compensation for actual damage done to American trade, if such damage could be assessed by fair arbitration."

This is indeed a practical and a candid statement, but "Britannicus," having made it, straightway forgets, in the argument which he builds up from it, that no such proposition has ever been officially made by the British Government. It may be true as a fact that "it is now very generally admitted that the Americans have a real grievance against Great Britain as respects the Alabama and other Confederate cruisers," but no such admission have we ever heard anything about, from those who alone have authority to make it, namely, the British Government. On the contrary, that Government has denied for years, and uniformly, that any such "real grievance" exists. There is not a line of the sort just spoken of in the diplomatic correspondence of the Foreign Office, whether conducted by RUSSELL, STANLEY or CLARENDON. There is not a line in any protocol, or any proposition for settlement yet made, implying that admission. On the other hand, there are hundreds, we might almost say thousands, of pages written exclusively to show that no such "real grievance" exists. While appreciating the feeling of "Britannicus," and the class of Englishmen he represents, we must say that his first efforts ought to be directed toward making that a practical and efficient official fact which he now gives us as opinion—in other words, that his first field for persuasion is with his own countrymen, and not with ours. When he sets his own Government in the right, even as he understands it, we predict that he will find no trouble with ours.

In the next place, "Britannicus" contrasts to our disadvantage the "large concessions" of his Government with American popular bitterness and exaction. But when were those "concessions" made? And when did that spirit of exaction spring up? Soon after the Alabama damages had accrued, notice thereof was formally presented to Her Majesty's Government, with demand for reparation. No attention was paid to this official presentation for more than a year; and when Mr. ADAMS again, by direction, called notice to it, the very "concession" now made was refused with a brusqueness approaching contempt. It was announced, we say, by Earl RUSSELL, not only that Great Britain declined to pay the Alabama claims, but that she "declined to submit them to arbitration." Perhaps "Britannicus" has forgotten this circumstance; judging from the general tone of reproach from the other side, the people of Great Britain in general have forgotten it; we, however, observed it, and naturally did not forget it. The "bill of Alabama damages" originally presented to the British Government was certainly no more than the "actual damage done to our trade," which "Britannicus" thinks ought in justice to be paid. What then does this writer think of the original denial of this just claim by his own Government, and how can he reproach us with our consequent bitterness?

We make these remarks simply because we believe that fair-minded Americans have not complained without reason of British national conduct from May, 1861, to July, 1869; and because it is the main purpose of the letter of "Britannicus" to contrast our conduct with that of Englishmen. As for Mr. SUMNER, we should not like to stand sponsor for all his rhetoric, much less for all his logic—he must answer for himself, as he is, probably, abundantly able to do. But the present tone of American public sentiment on the Alabama question was undoubtedly created by British official superciliousness in 1864, 1865 and 1866; comparatively little popular interest has ever since been taken in the protracted diplomatic discussion. And, in the same way, we may observe that when "Britannicus" contrasts "the honors paid to Captain SEMMES with the honors paid to the Fenian Head Centre on the floor of Congress," he, like most other English disputants, neglects to note the very essential circumstance that Fenianism came after the career of SEMMES, and after a "real grievance" had been endured and yet had been denied reparation at English hands.

However, we do not desire to prolong the discussion with a writer having the general spirit of "Britannicus." There are others of his countrymen with whom adverse argument is more pleasant. We only desired to show how his contrast of American national spirit with British national spirit rests on the erroneous foundation that the British Government has admitted what he believes to be "generally admitted;" and that this general unofficial admission of to-day was the popular admission one in 1865. The files of the London Times and other influential journals, three or four years back, will disprove the latter assumption. Meanwhile, the whole of this able and earnest letter is worthy of candid perusal by every American.

John Chinaman—What Shall We do with Him?

Each day the Chinese question comes upon us with fuller prominence and grander proportions. And by "the Chinese question" we mean, of course, that special one which dwarfs all other Chinese questions into insignificance, namely, the relations of China to America, and, more particularly, the approaching immigration of the Celestials by the million into the United States.

Fortunately for John Chinaman, and hardly less fortunately for Brother Jonathan, the old, foolish way of withstanding fatalistic movements of this sort is nearly over. The Partingtonian school of statesmanship, whose doctrines consist chiefly in such axiomatic utterances as "Cursed be Canaan," and whose practice is embraced in industrious efforts to mop up the ocean, has gone by; we are now called upon to look "manifest destiny" squarely in the face; to annex territory, receive immigration, and extend privileges of citizenship, as the times demand, prudently, always, but without fear; to rise on the wave of national progress, lest we be swamped by it. And this we not only have to do, but to do promptly and unhesitatingly. So fast do events move for America, in these latter days, that before the affairs of "white man" and "black man" are well settled, a new color comes upon the loom, to be woven into the mighty national fabric, and the "yellow man" becomes the figure of the hour.

That 1,200 Chinamen entered the Port of San Francisco the other day, packed in a single ship; that you may find them by hundreds in single hotels on the Pacific coast, and by thousands in "Chinese quarters;" that they are working their way eastward through the vast desolate gap now lying betwixt Atlantic and Pacific civilization,—a gap soon to be, perchance, the busiest and thickest hive of humanity on the globe; that Chinese hands already work in crowds on the Central Pacific Railroad at $30 a month in gold; that their yellow faces are to be seen in all the large cities of America; that no less than 170,000 of them are already in the United States; that the breaking down of a prejudice against emigration, built up through thousands of years, will soon make the outward rush from China enormous; that the American labor market and the American gold mine will bend four-fifths of this stream to our shores; that the new means of cheaper and better trans-Pacific navigation will foster this tendency—all these facts are showing, not only how large the Chinese problem is, but how rapidly it grows, and how soon it will demand definite solution. Moreover, while the Atlantic region, or that most contiguous to European emigration is comparatively well populated, the Pacific region, or that inviting to Asiatic emigration, is still almost a wilderness, a few miles back from the coast.

These and similar facts given, two opposing parties, in this as in all other questions of public policy, have already sprung up. On the one hand, we have the progressionists, who believe in "seizing the bull by the horns," and who, regarding Chinese immigration as a necessity, seek to make it an advantage to the country. The other are the reactionists, who, alarmed at the clear possibility that before the close of the century there will be as many Asiatics as Europeans on the Pacific Coast, seek to prevent future immigration, and to make all possible discriminations against the Chinese population which is already here. The practical views of the former were probably expressed by the speech of one of the representatives of six Chinese companies, who, together with a number of the leading merchants and bankers of the city, met our Congressional Committee of Ways and Means, and Senators WADE and CONKLING, in San Francisco, the other day. This speech took the ground that the true policy of the Government was not to check but foster emigration; that the subsidies of the China Steamship Line should be doubled, in order that, instead of monthly steamers, semi-monthly ones might be run; that Chinese capital should be invited to investments in America by protecting laws; that the State enactments laying a poll-tax on Chinese immigration, and another poll-tax on Chinese laborers in the mines, and preventing Chinese testimony from being received in the Courts, should be abrogated.

We must confess that we see nothing immoderate in these demands; they do not look to participation in politics, still less to political control; they do not touch the right of suffrage; they only ask an equal chance in the race for life, an opportunity for John Chinaman to work on equal terms with others, and to get an equal reward for his labors.

But this last is, of course, just what the opposite or Anti-Chinese Party do not want. They do not want competition and equality of condition. Or, in one word, it is the negro question all over again, and the fear lest the coolie should do the drudgery of society is precisely the same as that which formerly exercised a good part of our community, lest the negro should absorb it all. Accordingly, as the favorite remedy against "negro supremacy" was once slavery, or, lacking that, oppression, hanging at the lamp post, or shooting at sight, so similar means have been hitherto employed against "Chinese supremacy" in California.

We believe the true way out of the difficulty (for that there is difficulty arising from Chinese characteristics cannot be denied) is the forward way, not the backward. It is as with the negro; if the Anglo-Saxon is inferior, it is time he made way for his betters; if he be superior, as he certainly is, then all other races which he absorbs in America will only help do his inferior work for him. The retroactive policy in the Chinese question is based on the idea that the labor market is limited in America. The labor market here will never be full this side of the millennium; and it is only regular influx of the vast undeveloped resources of America which makes a prospective increase of the working population the cause of alarm and hatred. We say of John Chinaman, therefore, let him come, and let him work as hard, and live as cheaply as he pleases.

The Revolution of Labor in France.

The riots succeeding the French elections are evidently arousing some fear throughout Europe. A majority for the Government of 800,000 out of 8,000,000 votes is certainly not encouraging to the Imperialists. To find, moreover, that the extreme candidates do better than the medium party, and that the people care as little for constitutional monarchists as they do for the advocates of the Empire, is a fact decidedly unpleasant for the great bourgeoisie and for the commercial classes. But, more than this, that all the great cities should have witnessed serious disturbances between the citizens and soldiers, and that even barricades have been thrown up in Paris, and everywhere the soldiers have shown the greatest forbearance, are all evidences that the Empire feels itself, and for the time is, on an unstable basis. The anxiety of Europe, however, is due to a more profound cause even than the dread of a political revolution in France. There are symptoms in this election which foreshadow changes more momentous than the overthrow of dynasties. The Nation of this City, in a recent remarkable letter from Paris, written by an authority on French matters, expressed what the European Press are beginning now to see, that the lesson of these late elections is a social rather than political one; that this new movement against the Empire is, in fact, the first stirring of that grand upheaval of labor, which is before long to shake every social structure throughout the civilized world. The French ouvriers are penetrated with the ideas which LASSALLE has represented in Germany, and the "trades' unions" are somewhat expressing in England, and the "Eight-hour" party embody here—that for centuries Capital has wrung from Labor its undue share of the profits of all production, that Labor has been tyrannized over and cheated and wronged; that capitalists could combine or wait while laborers were single and weak, and must work or starve; and that now at length, either under universal suffrage as in France and America, or under trades' unions in Great Britain, they will force the capitalist class to redress the wrongs of centuries.

No one can know who has not studied the subject, what a vast confederation of labor is forming throughout Europe, underlying all forms of government, and soon to extend itself even here. This great society of operatives and laborers do not much trouble themselves whether they have Emperor or President over them, Reformer or Tory, Democrat or Republican. What they are seeking for is not a political revolution, but an economical one. They do not care what party or candidates represent them, provided they can secure from the State or from capitalists such terms as will put them more on an equality with the latter. They have heard of the axioms of political economy long enough; of "wage-funds" and such other fallacies; of the impossibility of a strike permanently raising wages, or legislation giving them a greater share of profits in production, and they will have none of them. They have tested by practice that strikes can raise wages, as is the admitted result in England; that legislation can diminish hours of labor, or, in other words, add to wages, as is the experience here; and they believe, especially in France, that the Government can put them on a more even level with capitalists by lending its credit or by forcibly raising their wages, or by giving them a share in the profits of manufacture. In some shape or other, the operatives of Europe are determined to secure some greater share of the vast returns which are now yielded by modern industrial production.

In England, the trades' union has almost become a governmental power, and will soon be felt in Parliament. It controls now innumerable branches of business, and wields a very considerable money force. It has already increased the returns of labor, and co-operation is doing still more in the same direction.

In France, the operatives having the tremendous weapon of universal suffrage, are determined to secure their end by governmental means. They are putting in Socialist, or at least anti-capitalist members. They expect legislative aid for their co-operative associations, and subventions of the State and loans of credit for whatever branches of industry they may choose as most deserving. They have had enough of moderate Liberals, and want now the true "Reds," or at least the men in sympathy with the laboring classes.

NAPOLEON will soon perceive their objects. He understands this class, and in the great coming struggle in France and Europe between Capital and Labor, we may be sure that he will at once side with the masses. He has no sympathy with the bourgeoisie, nor they for him. The Empire can rest as well on a Confederation of Labor, as on a Representative Assembly. The masses have no objections to a Napoleon, provided the State become the patron of the workingmen. The Empire will do as well for them as a Republic, if it loan its credit, organize work and make the laborers, in effect, capitalists. Such is the future which dimly shines out through the mists of these elections.

MINOR TOPICS.

We have good news, at last, for those of our fellow-citizens who have been grieving, with us, over the filthy condition of the public streets. An arrangement has been made, we are told, between the Street Contractor and the Board of Health, by which all the streets will be cleansed twice and the dirtiest ones do times every week. The intelligence is almost too good to be true.

The recent epidemic of small-pox in this City was thoroughly "stamped out" by the prompt and efficient action of the Health authorities, at least, so far that but few cases have occurred within the past two or three weeks. The total number of deaths since November have not exceeded seventy-five, and none have died for several days past. An intimation of the terrible results that might have followed, but for the action of the Board, may be had from what occurred during previous visitations of the disease to this City. For instance, in 1821, the deaths from small-pox occurred; in 1826, 627; in 1831, 656, and in 1858, 674. The public should, therefore, uphold the Board of Health.

How much longer will the patience of the good people of New-York and Brooklyn be taxed by the presence of filthy "rendering" boats, anchored within a few yards of the docks of both cities, and sending forth upon every wind the foulest and most deadly odors imaginable? The owners of these vessels gather the dead animals from our streets daily, and cut them up and boil them beneath our very noses. They will not use disinfectants in their work, and neither will they go away from the docks, and their presence is a continual source of disease and death among the unfortunate dwellers in those localities. The Brooklynites are so enraged by the nuisance that they threaten to burn the boat unless it is immediately removed. Is there any good reason why all of this offensive business should not be removed to Barren Island, where it need to be conducted? We call for immediate action on the part of the proper authorities.

Ex-President JOHNSON declares that he "often puts his hands to his head and wonders if he is sane." After reading his last manifesto, the people will have no difficulty in answering the question.

We suppose Dr. FRANCIS LIEBER intends to secure the publication in permanent form of the series of articles he has lately been engaged in writing on Free Trade and Protection. They are characterized by all the Doctor's learning, vigor of reasoning and clearness of thought, and would form an admirable manual or text-book for the use of those who wish to post themselves on this vital political question.

It is to be hoped the Government will lose no time in making an example of the large number of counterfeiters who have lately been arrested in this and other States. The leniency which has been displayed toward these knaves of late years has given them a thorough contempt of the law, and it is necessary they should now be warned that counterfeiting is a crime.

Ex-President JOHNSON sees public affairs through strange spectacles. "The country is in peril," he declares, "of a most detestable moneyed aristocracy who are striving to rule the country; hucksters and bondholders" who have GRANT under their control. It is the Northern aristocracy—the men who furnished the money to keep the country afloat—whom he thus defames. The Southern aspect to his eyes is entirely different. "There all the wealth, all the element that pays the taxes, that combines the intelligence and respectability of the State is deprived of the ballot." It is the condition of the Southern aristocracy—the men who furnished the money and cotton to break up the Government which he thus deplores. Mr. JOHNSON's argument is too shallow—the common sense of the people, discarding all other arguments, will see only that he is the apologist of men who proved their disloyalty.

It is one of the most curious signs of the times to see the Celestials lecturing "the rest of mankind" for their exclusiveness. The Chinese leaders in California consider the laws, regulations and customs of this country altogether too exclusive, and not only desire our Government to furnish greater facilities for their getting here, but also greater security in their rights and privileges after they arrive here. This is admirable for Young China.

What about those bath accommodations for the people during the Summer season that were so much talked of some months ago?

The Jewish Messenger complains of the introduction of sectarian books into the primary and junior departments of our Public Schools. Some of the hymns which are sung in concert, and in which all the children, whether Israelites or Christians, are compelled to join, are also said to be unquestionably sectarian in their character. The conclusion of the Messenger is that "prayers, hymns, and school-books of this kind have no place in the system of education, which all citizens support, and by which all ought to benefit, irrespective of creed." The Board of Education should inquire into the matter at once.

The Grand Trunk Railway, according to a recent report of the Railroad Commissioners of New-Hampshire, must be in a very bad way indeed. They say it is so slow that stages have to wait for it; a freight train got off the track thirteen times in eight miles; it is entirely uncertain at what time to expect passengers, freight or mails; the road is utterly worn out. Probably few of our readers are aware how fast a railroad "wears out." An estimate of the Iron and Steel Association places the average wear and tear of the tracks in the United States at seven per cent. per annum, equal to 336,700 tons of rails, which, at the rate of ninety tons to the mile, is enough to lay 3,670 miles of track. The amount of iron, therefore, needed to replace the annual wear and tear of our railroads is more than enough to lay a track from this City to San Francisco. Our cheap and shabby fashion of constructing railroads is evidently very poor economy. The average cost of construction of the English lines has been about $215,000 in gold per mile, or at least four times the average cost of construction of American railroads.

The Connecticut Legislature has done a good thing in prohibiting, under severe penalty, the carrying on of gambling operations on steamboats or railroad trains. There are large numbers of sharpers who travel constantly for the purpose of playing their swindling tricks on the passengers, and our reporters frequently give accounts of their movements and doings. It has long been a crying evil, and the peremptory enforcement of the law will have an excellent effect.

This is an age of progress. In Owen County, Kentucky, for instance, a Grand Jury, last week, "presented" an aged woman of that place, on the charge of being a witch,—which she says that she is not. It is alleged that she cast an evil eye upon her neighbor's cattle, so that they sickened and died by the score, and, further, that she so affected the waters of the wells upon which she looked that all who partook of them languished and eventually followed their fathers to dream-land. Such an unmitigated set of fools as these jurors were born out of time. They should have flourished a century or two ago. As it is they have lived too long to have learned so little.

Ex-President JOHNSON is announced to speak in Greeneville, Tenn., on Monday next, upon the issues of the day, and especially upon the condition of affairs in Tennessee.

WASHINGTON.

The Resignation of Secretary Borie—The Probe and the True Correspondence—The Case of Bradley vs. Fisher—Personal—Cadets Assigned to Duty.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times

WASHINGTON, Monday, June 28.

A scandalous piece of immorality in journalism came to light here to-day. The correspondent of one of your contemporaries, the Herald, in his account of the resignation of Secretary BORIE and the appointment of General ROSSEAU, printed Saturday, outdid his competitors slightly by printing what purported to be the official letter of resignation of Mr. BORIE, and the President's letter accepting. On being read here, the exceedingly cold and curt nature of the PRESIDENT's letter caused considerable comment, and the subject being mentioned in his presence to-day, and the reported letters read, he promptly pronounced the one to which his name was attached to be a forgery, and Secretary FISH, in whose office Mr. BORIE's letter of resignation was placed on file, also pronounced that to be a forgery. The PRESIDENT's letter of acceptance was written in Mr. BORIE's presence, immediately after he had tendered his resignation, and handed to him without preserving a copy, which has since been requested of him. The letter was kind and courteous in tone, expressed regret that he found it necessary to sever his official connection with the Government, thanked him for the manner in which he had discharged his duties, trusted he would find in his return to private life that restoration to health which seemed to be impossible while he remained in official position, &c. Both letters will be made public as soon as copies can be obtained.

THE EXPENSES OF MINISTERS JOHNSON AND DIX.

Considering the recent publication of the contingent expenses of Ministers JOHNSON and DIX, these facts should be stated in justice to all concerned. There was no intention of drawing any comparison unfavorable to General DIX. In using the figures which were believed to be correct, they were given as covering three months, when they should have been for three quarters, or nine months, and while the figures, with this correction will probably be found to be corroborated by the official records, yet it is proper to say that the Fifth Auditor's office did not authorize their publication.

THE BRADLEY-FISHER CASE.

The case of JOSEPH H. BRADLEY against Judge FISHER, for libel, was disposed of to-day in the Circuit Court before Judge WYLIE. The alleged libel is the order made by Judge FISHER two years ago at the close of the Surratt trial, disbarring Mr. BRADLEY from practice in the Criminal Court. Mr. BRADLEY himself opened his case to the jury in an argument of about an hour and a half. His counsel then offered in evidence the manuscript order of Judge FISHER directing the disbarring of Mr. BRADLEY. This was objected to by the defence on the ground of variance, as the plaintiff's declaration was drawn up from the formal record of the Court in which the order was entitled, as made in the case of United States vs. John Surratt, while the manuscript order offered in evidence was not entitled at all. Judge WYLIE sustained the objection. BRADLEY's counsel then put in evidence the formal judicial record of the order. This they proposed to follow up with the testimony of Mr. BRADLEY and others, in order to show that the proceedings on which the order was based occurred out of Court. The defence objected that the plaintiff could not contradict by parol testimony the judicial record put in evidence by himself, and maintained that upon the record the plaintiff could not recover since the order was a judicial act. Judge WYLIE expressed himself as freely convinced of the correctness of this view, but said that he would afford the plaintiff every facility for making up the record of the case, so as to take it up to the Supreme Court. Thus the case ended.

THE SPANISH MISSION.

JOHN HAY, Esq., formerly Private Secretary to President LINCOLN, subsequently Assistant Secretary of Legation at Paris, and more recently Charge d'Affaires at Vienna, was to-day appointed Secretary of Legation at Madrid, vice Mr. H. J. PERRY, recalled. It is understood here that this appointment is entirely satisfactory to General SICKLES.

SECRETARY ROBESON.

The new Secretary of the Navy received the officers of the Navy and Marine Corps to-day, and created a very favorable impression. His frank, open manner made many friends, and his assurance that in all cases of complaint or grievance there would always be an appeal to the Secretary of the Navy in person, was interpreted by many to mean that he intends to be Secretary of the Navy.

MRS. GRANT.

Mrs. GRANT visited her sister-in-law, Mrs. Dr. SHARP, at Laurel, Md., to-day. She was escorted to the depot by the President, who subsequently visited the State Department, and had an interview with the Secretary of State.

THE NATIONAL INTELLIGENCER.

No satisfactory settlement of the affairs of the National Intelligencer has yet been made, and the meetings of politicians and others to endeavor to agree on a basis and to raise money for its future publication, have so far resulted in nothing. It looks now as if the Democracy was destined to have no newspaper organ at the National Capital. An idea of the breadth of view and newspaper ability of the men who propose to resuscitate the old concern, may be gathered from the statement of one of the gentlemen engaged in the work of revival. At one of the recent meetings a distinguished individual said that it was about time that we had a white man's paper published here, and unless the new Intelligencer was made a white man's paper he would have nothing to do with it.

NEW SUPERVISOR OF TENNESSEE.

GEO. W. EMERY, Esq., was to-day appointed Supervisor of Internal Revenue for Tennessee by the Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. EMERY was strongly recommended by Colonel STOKES, the regular Republican candidate for Governor, and as the appointment is understood to have received the sanction of the President, it may therefore be taken as an indication of the sympathies of the Administration in the political contest now going on in that State.

Dispatches to the Associated Press

Second—The general regulations, paragraph 181, allow three months' leave of absence to the graduates of the Military Academy on entering the service. In accordance with this regulation all the graduates above named will report in person at their proper stations on the 30th of September next.

Third—The graduates on the receipt of this order will immediately report by letter to the commanding officer of their respective regiments, who will assign to companies those who have not been so assigned by this order. If the station of the regimental commander be not known, their reports will be forwarded under cover to the Adjutant-General for transmittal.

Fourth—The transportation and allowance of mileage, to which the graduates will be entitled in traveling from West Point to their posts, under the foregoing orders, will be paid in advance of the performance of the journeys.

By command of GENERAL SHERMAN.

E. D. TOWNSEND, Adjutant-General.

PAY OF FEMALE CLERKS.

Secretary of the Treasury RICHARDSON on the 23d inst. addressed a letter to Comptroller TAYLOR, asking for a construction of the clause of the law of March 3, 1869, which reads, "Sixty female clerks seventy-two thousand dollars," as to whether it meant to increase the compensation of female clerks from $900 to $1,200. The Comptroller has written a lengthy reply, in which he says that the provision does not assume to increase the compensation; and the absence of words prescribing an increase in the act is expressive of the intention that none should be made.

NATIONAL BANKS OF NEW-YORK.

The abstract of the report of the National Banks of the City of New-York at the close of business, June 12, shows the resources and liabilities to be nearly $403,000,000; including loans and discounts, $17,500,000; specie, upward $15,000,000; legal-tender notes, $16,000,000, and three per cent. certificates, $30,100,000.

CHANGES IN THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

The following changes have been made in the Post Office Department:

C. J. French, Special Agent, and assigned to duty as Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, with headquarters at Atlanta, Ga.; Jacob Cohen, route agent between Indianapolis, Ind., and Louisville, Ky., vice Alexander Griffith, removed; Lewis Williams, route agent at Albany, N. Y., vice Archibald Young, removed; George Giles, local agent at Albany, N. Y., vice James Young, removed; Lorenzo W. Farnsworth, Route Agent from Sacramento Cal., to Farmington, Davis County, Utah; Rodwell Hart, Special Agent and Assistant Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service for the second division, with headquarters at New-York City; George A. C. Miller, Special Agent at large, assigned to duty on mail depredations; Thomas H. Humphrey, Route Agent from Macon, Ga., to Eufaula, Ala., vice R. A. Calvert, resigned; George W. Hoyt, Special Agent, to the First District, Sixth Division.

[illegible] discontinued.—F. W. Schwartz, as Special Agent for Arkansas, and assigned as Post Office Inspector for the Third District, Fifth Division; A. W. Ward, Special Agent at large; Joseph F. Wagner, Special Agent for Maryland, Delaware and West Virginia, and assigned as Post Office Inspector for the Third Division; John H. Wickser, Special Agent for Illinois, and assigned to duty as Special Agent for the Third District, Sixth Division; Samuel Smith, Special Agent in New-York City; E. K. Sharretts, Special Agent for Eastern New-York, Connecticut and Rhode Island; Harrison Park, Special Agent at large; B. R. Vassall, Special Agent for the New-England States.

Commission revoked—James Gaylor, as Special Agent, and reappointed Special Agent at large on Mail Depredations.

REVENUE RECEIPTS.

The internal revenue receipts to-day are $1,191,610.

NAVY.

Dispatches received from Admiral Hoff, dated Flagship Albany, Key West, June 17, say: The last advices from our Consul-General at Havana reported matters comparatively quiet after the late excitement attending the abolition of Dulce.

Surgeon N. H. Adams has been detached from the Hartford, and placed on waiting orders. Chaplain Henry Clubb has been detached from the Kearsarge and placed on waiting orders. Midshipman J. D. Adams, detached from the Gettysburg and ordered to return to the United States.

ARMY.

The President has accepted the resignations of the following officers: Major W. W. Lowe, Brevet Brigadier-General, Sixth United States Cavalry; First Lieutenant W. J. Dulaux, Fifteenth Infantry; Second Lieutenant C. A. Phillips, Fourteenth Infantry. Major W. Russell, Fourth Cavalry, has been relieved from duty in the Department of Louisiana and ordered to join his regiment in the Fifth Military District. Captain Lewis O. Owens, Engineer Corps, has been ordered to staff duty in the Fifth District.

By direction of the Secretary of War Thomas McKeever, of Colorado, Indian Agent, has been relieved from further practice in the Bureau of the War Department.

Second Lieutenant W. H. Bower and Captain F. A. Field, United States Army, are ordered to duty as Indian Agents, the latter being released from duty in the Fourth Military District. The order assigning Brevet Major James Jackson to duty in the Indian Country is revoked.

Brevet Major-General A. Ames, Lieutenant-Colonel United States Army, is ordered to Washington on public business.

Theatrical.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.

The entertainment at this theatre was last evening varied by the introduction of a new burlesque opening, entitled "Coraline; or, Sir Rupert the Reckless," an odd version of the familiar "Lurline" story, and by the addition of a few lively dances to the action of the pantomime. These changes are in no respect important, and are intended only to enliven the closing nights of a series of performances which have at no time been successful, and which are presently to make way for a higher and more commendable order of attraction. Each day that passes at Wallack's until the inauguration of the new condition of affairs must be regarded by the critic as dies non. "Dora" and Blackeyed Susan" are announced for next week.

PERSONAL.

A friend assures us that injustice has been done to Mr. CURTIN in associating his name with warlike counsels in the matter of the Alabama claims. In his speech before starting for St. Petersburg he expressed the strongest desire for peace; and in less formal intercourse he was decided in the conviction that no occasion exists for hostilities, or even unfriendly feelings with any foreign Power. Mr. CURTIN, it seems, has been a victim of Washington sensation-mongers.

The retirement of Colonel RICHARD LATHERS from active participation in the business which he so long adorned with the highest qualities of a man of business, is to be signalized by the presentation to him of a grand service of plate, full particulars of which will be found set forth in another column this morning.

Among the arrivals yesterday by the Pereire, from Havre, was General CLUSERET, who during the recent election riots in Paris was ordered to leave France. The General says the reason assigned for his expulsion was the "situation of the States." The order was peremptory for him to leave on the 8th of June, but, by the aid of Minister WASHBURNE, he was permitted to remain until the 12th, and finally did not sail until the 18th.

Governor GEARY, of Pennsylvania, received notification yesterday, in complimentary letters from General HORACE PORTER and General SHRIVER, that President GRANT has appointed his son, WILLIAM LOGAN GEARY, to a cadetship-at-large at West Point, for the class of next year.

Sun-Stroke.

HENRY BLESSES, a German, aged 49, died suddenly yesterday, at No. 195 Crosby-street. GEO. CERNOLE, aged 3 months, also died in a sudden manner at No. 23 Beach-street. Both cases are supposed to be the result of the heat. MICHAEL KIERNAN, aged 23, and residing in Seventy-seventh-street, near First-avenue, was so prostrated by the heat yesterday, in Second-avenue, that he was removed to Bellevue Hospital.

YALE COLLEGE

Presentation Week at New-Haven—The De Forest Prize—The Wooden Spoon Concert—Interesting Details.

From Our Special Correspondent.

NEW-HAVEN, Monday, June 28, 1869.

The exercises of Presentation Week at Yale College commenced to-day with the De Forest Prize speaking in the College chapel. The six men of the Senior Class who took the Townsend Prizes, ($10 each in gold for the best essays,) contended on this occasion for the gold medal worth $100 provided for in the De Forest bequest. This prize is awarded by the Faculty this year for the best speech on either of the themes mentioned in the following programme:

1. "The Law of Benevolence and the Law of Trade Coincident;" Henry C. Bannard, McGregor, Iowa. 2. "John Milton, Jeremy Taylor and John Locke as Advocates of Liberty;" Edward Heaton, Cincinnati, Ohio. 3. "John Milton, Jeremy Taylor and John Locke as Advocates of Liberty;" Moses S. Phelps, Andover, Mass. 4. "Thomas Wentworth, Earl of Strafford;" George S. Sedgwick, Great Barrington, Mass. 5. "John Milton, Jeremy Taylor and John Locke as Advocates of Liberty;" Edward P. Wilder, Kolapoor, India. 6. "The Law of Benevolence and the Law of Trade Coincident;" Henry V. Freeman, Rockford, Ill.

The orations were all decidedly above mediocrity. They had been prepared, in the first place, as essays on the subjects mentioned, and of all those presented by the members of the Senior Class had been deemed most worthy. But as essays, they were generally too long for oral delivery, and were wanting in the essential characteristics in which a composition written to be read differs from one prepared for the rostrum. Their authors, therefore, had, in addition to the first writing of them, the important and difficult exercise of condensing them, and at the same time preserving or enhancing the eloquence of the passages that could be made "telling" in an oration. All were delivered with excellent effect, and the award of the prize to EDWARD P. WILDER was in accordance with the sentiment of most of those who heard the addresses. Mr. WILDER owed his success quite as much to his manner as to his matter. As is usual with college orators, there was in the delivery of most of those who spoke a certain constraint, which those who are constantly cautioned to speak and write under the strict rules of rhetoric are apt to evince. Mr. WILDER seemed less trammeled in this way than the others. His style was natural and not too conventional.

The audience was large, and, unlike the audiences that attend the public exercises of colleges in New-York City, exceedingly attentive. There was no whispering and flirting among the belles and beaux, no opening and shutting of doors, and fluttering of programmes and walking about while the orators had the floor. Everything was conducted with a quiet decorum which reflected great credit upon all concerned.

This evening the wooden spoon promenade concert is taking place at the Music Hall, which is filled to overflowing. The music is furnished by THEODORE THOMAS and his orchestra. The lady friends of the students, including the belles of New-Haven, as well as those of other adjacent cities, with a large delegation from New-York, are present in great numbers and all goes merrily.

To-morrow night the wooden spoon exhibition takes place in the same hall. The names of the Cochleariorati—the nine jolliest fellows of the Junior Class, who are to select one of their number as the very jolliest and worthy to bear the spoon—are as follows: J. G. K. McClure, S. St. J. McCutchen, J. W. Shattuck, R. Terry, E. G. Selden, D. McCoy Bone, H. A. Cleveland, H. J. Faulkner, R. Johnston. CLEVELAND is to take the spoon. The exercises will consist of the usual ode, presentation address and response, Latin comic oration, songs, tableaux and farces.

On Wednesday the formal presentation of the members of the Graduating Class to the President of the College takes place. The candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts assemble at a little before 10 o'clock, and proceed with the Senior Tutor, CHARLES F. OTIS, M. A., to the President's house. Here the Tutor, in a brief Latin formula, informs the President that these are the candidates, and he, gazing at them with as much apparent interest as if he were not already informed with regard to them, replies also in Latin. At 10 A. M. the class oration is delivered in the College chapel by HENRY A. BERNS, and the class poem by LYMAN H. BOGG, and the parting song of the class will be sung by the College choir. At noon the Class, the Faculty and their guests partake of a collation. At half past 2 P. M. the class assemble on the College green, where the four class historians read their humorous histories of the class, and the pipe is smoked. Then the class visit each of the old buildings and the residences of the Professors, cheering them all, then plant the class ivy against the library building, singing the ivy song, composed for the occasion. At 7:30 P. M. the members of the class take an affectionate leave of each other, and the ceremonies of Presentation Week are concluded. The Commencement exercises take place July 29, and the Baccalaureate sermon is preached on the Sunday evening preceding. The Graduating Class this year numbers 117. This number may possibly be reduced slightly when their standing is announced. The largest class ever graduated at Yale was that of 1861, which numbered 130 members. The present class, it will be observed, is almost as large. The institution was never in a more prosperous condition than at present. G. C.

St. Francis Xavier College.

The nineteenth annual Commencement of the College of St. Francis Xavier, in this City, was held last evening. The hall of the College was crowded, chiefly by guests of Irish birth or parentage, and on the platform was Archbishop MCCLOSKEY, who presided, together with J. V. PRUYN, Chancellor of the University of the State of New-York; Mr. ERASTUS C. BENEDICT, one of its Regents, and Rev. Fathers MCNIERNEY, STARRS, BRENNAN, BARRY, MCGEAN, FARRELL, CONNOR, PRESTON, LOYZANCE and others. The Archbishop was in a citizen's suit of black, as were also the graduates, who wore no robes. The priests wore their usual black soutanes. The exercises comprehended an overture, followed by a discourse on "Conservative Democracy," by JAMES T. CURRAN, which was very judiciously delivered. The band followed by an air from STORTZI, accompanied by a chorus of students. Mr. EDWARD T. MCGINLEY succeeded with an essay upon Pope PIUS IX., whom the young man defined as the great man of his time, who had surrounded his name with a halo of glory. The crowning act of his pontificate, he said, would be the Ecumenical Council, shortly to sit in Rome. After additional music the award of medals and prizes took place. The gold medal for superior success of the post-graduate course was awarded to THOMAS B. MCCARTHY, and the medal to MICHAEL J. MCCARTEN. In the Graduating Class, JAMES T. CURRAN obtained a gold medal for an essay on "Evidences of Religion," and a second was awarded to EDWARD T. MCGINLEY. A silver medal for an essay on "Mental Philosophy" was given to JAMES T. CURRAN, and one to EDWARD MCGINLEY, as being next in merit. The gold medal of the under-graduate course for the best Latin and English composition was obtained by THOMAS S. O'BRIEN. The prizes given were numerous and were awarded for various studies. A number of degrees were also conferred.

Mount Washington Collegiate Institute.

The patrons and friends of this distinguished educational institution will have noticed that its twenty-sixth anniversary will be celebrated at Wallack's Theatre this afternoon at 2 o'clock. We have no doubt that the audience will be as large and brilliant as in previous years.

The Late James W. Barker—Meeting of the Eclectic Insurance Company.

A meeting of the Directors of the Eclectic Insurance Company was held this morning at No. 187 Broadway, to take action of respect to the memory of the late President of the Company, Mr. JAMES W. BARKER. Mr. SMITH, the Vice-President, took the chair, and explained the objects for which the Directors had assembled. He also gave a sketch of the personal history of Mr. BARKER, whom he had known for twenty-five years.

Dr. A. WILDER moved the appointment of a committee to prepare suitable resolutions. This resolution was seconded, Messrs. WILSON of SAMUEL SINCLAIR and LEON D. DE BAST were appointed, and reported the following preamble and resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The President of this Company, Mr. JAMES W. BARKER, has suddenly been called from the scenes and activities of this life to meet the realities of a future state of existence, and has left behind an honorable record of high talent, of energetic, public spirit, munificence to the poor, liberality to religious enterprises, and diligence in business.

Resolved, That we, the fellow-Directors of the Eclectic Life Insurance Company, hold in the company of his memory and manifest in every place of trust.

Resolved, That we, the fellow-Directors of the Eclectic Life Insurance Company, hold in the company of his memory and manifest in every place of trust.

Resolved, That we, the fellow-Directors of the Eclectic Life Insurance Company, hold in the company of his memory and manifest in every place of trust.

Resolved, That we, the fellow-Directors of the Eclectic Life Insurance Company, hold in the company of his memory and manifest in every place of trust.

Resolved, That we believe our loss to be his gain; and while we regret and deplore that he has been removed from us in the midst of his usefulness, we rejoice that we can bear testimony to our confidence that he has been called to more enlarged honor.

Resolved, That the Directors of this Company be requested to attend his funeral; and that a copy of these resolutions, duly engrossed and verified, be communicated to the family.

It is intended to hold a funeral service at the house of Mr. BARKER, at Rahway, N. J., on Tuesday afternoon, the public funeral to take place at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, on Fourth-avenue. Bishop JAMES, Rev. Mr. INSKIP, Rev. Mr. STRATTON, and Mr. BARKER's favorite pastor, Rev. W. P. CORBIT, have been requested to officiate.

TEMPERANCE IN POLITICS.

The State Temperance Committee—The Call for the National Convention in Chicago.

From the Rochester Union, June 26.

We have already alluded to the action of the temperance people of this State in Convention assembled, resolving to henceforth support no candidate for office, and act with no party, that does not unequivocally and emphatically declare in favor of prohibition. The wording of the resolve is that they are "unqualifedly in favor of the total prohibition of manufacture, importation or sale of alcoholic liquors;" and the Committee is instructed to ascertain the views of the candidates of the two political parties this Fall, and in case they are not in favor of "total prohibition" to call a Convention for the purpose of making nominations of their own.

The Committee is composed as follows:

1...N. W. Foster.	17...S. H. Merry.
2...J. M. Stearns.	18...S. P. Ridgway.
3...S. E. Hale.	19...G. D. Winslow.
4...H. S. McCollum.	20...John O'Donnell.
5...Rev. O. L. Taylor.	21...D. O. Sullivan.
6...S. Merrill, Jr.	22...J. G. Jenkins.
7...W. E. McDonough.	23...J. L. Ross.
8...D. Walford.	24...L. H. Clark.
9...M. A. Reed.	25...M. H. Clark.
10...G. R. Trumper.	26...H. H. Wait.
11...W. J. Gree.	27...David Decker.
12...A. Gerardier.	28...Frederick Starr.
13...J. G. Smith.	29...D. Webster.
14...J. W. Harcourt.	30...Edward Brizell.
15...Rev. S. McKean.	31...H. G. Young.
16...A. M. Locke.

The Committee is to meet at Saratoga Springs, on Tuesday, the 13th day of July, at 10 o'clock A. M., and report at Dr. Hamilton's Medical Institute.

Similar movements for consistent action by the Prohibitionists are being made in other States, and such unanimity is there among them that they are uniting for a national crusade against the manufacture and sale of liquors. A National Temperance Convention has been called to assemble at Chicago, Ill., on Wednesday, Sept. 1. The call, already extensively signed, says:

The moral, social and political evils of intemperance, and the nonenforcement of the Liquor laws, are so fearful and prominent, and the causes thereof are so intrenched and protected by Government authority and party interest, that the suppression of these evils calls upon the friends of temperance; and the duties connected with home, religion and public peace demand that old political ties and associations shall be sundered, and a DISTINCT POLITICAL PARTY, with PROHIBITION of traffic in intoxicating liquors as the most prominent feature, should be organized.

The distinctive political issues that have for years past interested the American people are now comparatively unimportant or fully settled, and in this aspect the time is auspicious for a decided and practical effort to overcome the dread power of the liquor trade.

The undersigned do therefore earnestly invite all friends of temperance, of law and enforcement of law, and favorable to distinct political action, for the promotion of the same, to meet in general Mass Convention, in the City of Chicago, on Wednesday, the 1st day of September, 1869, at 11 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of organizing for distinct political action for temperance.

All churches, Sunday schools and temperance societies, of all names, are requested to send delegates, and all persons favorable to temperance are invited to meet at the time and place above stated.

Great Western Marine Insurance Company.

RETIREMENT OF ITS VETERAN PRESIDENT.

Our distinguished fellow-citizen, Colonel RICHARD LATHERS, has retired from the Great Western Marine Insurance Company, over which he has presided so ably since its organization, and JOHN A. PARKER, Esq., the first Vice-President, has been elected in his place. Colonel LATHERS has been an able, liberal and indefatigable executive officer, and the eminent success of the Company has been due in no small degree to his wise management. He has a very considerable private fortune, and the conduct of his private affairs calls for all of the time he feels willing to devote to business pursuits. During the thirteen years of Colonel LATHERS' administration the Great Western has earned over six million dollars in net profits. We annex his letter of resignation and the correspondence which grew out of it:

OFFICE OF GREAT WESTERN INSURANCE CO.,
No. 80 WILLIAM-ST., NEW-YORK.

At a meeting of the Board, of Directors of the Great Western (Marine) Insurance Company of the City of New-York, on the 10th day of June, in the year 1869, Mr. H. F. SPAULDING, of the Committee, appointed at a previous meeting of the Board, to prepare resolutions expressive of the sentiments of the Board, upon the occasion of the retirement of Mr. LATHERS from the Presidency of the Company, presented the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted by the Board:

Resolved, That the Board of Directors of the Great Western Marine Insurance Company have received with regret the announcement of RICHARD LATHERS, Esq., (the President of the Company from its foundation,) that he desired to retire from the management of the Company, upon considerations relating to his personal interests, and that he accordingly resigned his office to give opportunity for the election of his successor.

Resolved, That the intelligent, faithful and constant devotion of Mr. LATHERS to the interests of this Company is cordially recognized by the Board of Directors in their own behalf, and in that of the body of the stockholders, as one of the chief causes of the great prosperity which has attended the conduct of the business of the Company from the beginning, and of the large returns upon their investment in its stock, which it has made to its holders.

Resolved, That the Board gladly bears testimony to the justice and liberality of Mr. LATHERS in his dealings with the customers of the Company, with the underwriters of the City, and with the general mercantile community, and congratulates him upon having maintained for himself and the Company the credit of a wise and upright administration of the weighty interests dependent upon his care, during peace and war, and through the great vicissitudes of trade and currency, which have marked the period of the Company's history.

Resolved, That the Board of Directors will take measures to prepare and present to their retiring President a service of plate, to preserve in the eyes of himself and his family some memory of our obligations to him, and of our grateful acknowledgment of them.

NEW-YORK, June 24, 1869.

Messrs. W. M. Evarts, H. F. Spaulding, W. H. Guion, J. Boorman Johnston, N. Chandler, Committee:

GENTLEMEN: I have received through the Secretary a copy of the resolutions reported by you, and adopted unanimously by the Board of Directors, expressive of their kind appreciation of my services during my long official connection with them, in the organization and management of the Company.

The confidence and support which these gentlemen have uniformly extended to me, and the valuable influence of their names on both sides of the Atlantic, as indorsers of the credit and integrity of the Company, have been the chief instruments of the Company's success; and will continue, I trust, under the administration which succeeds me, to keep the Great Western Insurance Company among the first marine institutions in the world.

The approbation, therefore, of such a body of men, at the close of my administration, fills the measures of my highest ambition. I shall treasure these resolutions as the most valuable heritage of my family, and the most valued record of my business reputation.

Be kind enough to convey my grateful thanks to the Board for the resolutions within referred to, and accept for yourselves, as a committee, my sincere appreciation of the friendly language in which they are couched.

I am, very respectfully, yours truly,

RICHARD LATHERS, President.

NEW-YORK, June 24, 1869.

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Great Western (Marine) Insurance Company, held this day, at No. 80 William-street, JOHN A. PARKER, Esq., was elected President, and ALEXANDER MACRAY, Esq., was elected Vice-President of this Company, by the unanimous vote of the Board.

WM. T. LOCKWOOD, Secretary.

BASE BALL CHAMPIONSHIP.

Atlantic vs. Mutual—Nine Ends the Game—The Atlantics Victorious.

The game between the Atlantics and Mutuals, which was commenced at the Capitoline Ground yesterday, was brought to a sudden termination on the seventh inning by a severe rain storm. The contest had been looked forward to with great interest by the many admirers of base ball in the Metropolis and vicinity, and in fact, throughout the country. The Atlantics had the call at the rate of 100 to 80, and at these odds considerable money was invested in the issue of the match.

The Capitoline Ground, the scene of the encounter, presented an animated appearance. The seats at the upper end of the field were filled, and the sloping banks to the west of the ground had thousands of occupants. The house, at the entrance to the ground, the windows of which overlook the lower end of the field, was filled with ladies, who watched the proceedings with great interest.

About 3 o'clock the players made their appearance on the field, and, after a few minutes agreed upon Mr. JOHN GRUM for umpire. The Mutuals went to the bat; they retired in succession, however, without scoring. The Atlantics fared no better when at the bat, although five men stepped up to the plate. From this time to the fifth inning neither side succeeded in getting a run home. The fielding was superb, and is rarely excelled. A high wind interfered with the batting, very few balls being hit beyond the bases. In the fifth inning the Atlantics scored their first run, ZETTLEIN scoring the home plate amid the wildest excitement. In the sixth inning the Mutuals made their maiden run, and this achievement was also greeted with cheers. The Atlantics added another run to the one already obtained, and the score of the even six innings was two to one. In the seventh inning the Mutuals, for the sixth time, were whitewashed. As the Atlantics went to the bat, the clouds which had been gathering betokened rain. Their first two strikers went out in a hurry, and it began to look like another blank. McDONALD hit easily over the second base, and SMITH, START, CHAPMAN and FERGUSON followed with safe hits, and five runs had been scored, when the impending rain fell in torrents and play had to be suspended.

The storm continued for about twenty minutes, thoroughly drenching the large crowd. When it finally cleared up the ground was too wet to resume play, so the umpire called the game. Without question, the game was one of the most remarkable on record. Not an error was made on which a run was scored. The score is given below:

A Supposed Murdered Child Found Alive and Well.

An inquest convened before Coroner WHITE, of Hoboken, last evening, to investigate the case of a supposed murder of a young infant, was brought to a sudden and most singular termination by the production of the murdered child in Court alive and well.

About 11 o'clock on the night of the 20th inst. the body of a deceased infant, about three weeks old, and which was still warm, was found on the stoop of the residence of FREDERICK YOS, on Palisade-avenue, Hudson City. Coroner VOLK, of Washington Village, being notified, held an inquest on Saturday. No evidence throwing any light on the matter could be procured, and the statements of the physician who made the post-mortem examination, the jury rendered a verdict of "death from strangulation by some party or parties unknown."

Yesterday two women, Mrs. DEMAREST and Mrs. MCDONNEL, of Washington Village, made affidavits before Coroner WHITE that one of their neighbors, Miss WEBSTER, had an illegitimate child answering the description of the one found. This infant, they averred, had been conveyed away on the 19th by JOSIAH D. ROLLINS, a merchant on Palisade-avenue, and they believed the murdered child found was the same. Upon these affidavits Coroner WHITE at once proceeded to Washington Village, and, after consulting with Coroner VOLK, arrested Miss WEBSTER and RICHARDS, and held them in custody to await the result of the investigation.

From the prisoners the Coroner learned that the father of the child was one ALBERT ROLLINS, of New-York, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. Proceeding to New-York, Coroner VOLK found ROLLINS in the upper part of the City, and at once served the warrant. ROLLINS was greatly surprised as well as alarmed at the singular turn his little intrigue had taken, but stoutly denied that any harm had come to the child. In fact in a few minutes he produced him to the Coroner. All the prisoners were of course set at liberty.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The sales for the week ending Saturday last were quite large—larger than any previous week of the month—and the prices obtained were generally satisfactory. Two or three quite valuable pieces of country property were disposed of, and the sales drew several quite large crowds. There is a perceptible falling off, though, in public interest, the bidding is not so prompt, nor the visitors as much in earnest as they were a few weeks ago. The anxious buyers have for the season been pretty well supplied, and many, who attend these sales now, go simply for the excursion and to have a good time. It is not likely that many more will be made before the Summer vacation. A few, of course, will be, and between now and the 15th of next month several chances will be offered for those who are not yet suited to secure rural Homes. Property to be disposed of now needs to be very attractive and really desirable. Several such pieces will be offered, and will probably sell well.

The sales for the week just closed were as follows:

New-York improved property	$27,350
Country improved property	60,320
Country unimproved property	271,250
Total for the week ending June 26	$359,325
The sales for the previous week were:
New-York improved property	$8,100
Country improved property	15,600
Country unimproved property	326,607
Total	$349,307
Total from June 1 to June 5	$[illegible]
Total for week ending June 12	168,725
Total for week ending June 19	349,325
Total for week ending June 26	359,325
Total for the month of January	2,[illegible]
Total for the month of February	2,[illegible]
Total for the month of March	14,067,314
Total for the month of April	7,[illegible]
Total for the month of May	1,970,[illegible]
Grand total	$[illegible]

To-day three large sales will be made.

At Rahway, N. J., Messrs. JOHNSON & MILLER will offer on the premises 250 choice city lots, the property of J. U. UNDERHILL, Esq. Lufbery, Rutherford and Bond streets are now opened through the property, and Scott-avenue will also be opened as soon as the requisite formalities can be gone through. Proposals for grading, curbing and guttering these streets are now advertised, and the work will be done this Summer. Monroe-street is already flagged to Grand-street, where these improvements begin. The property is located within ten minutes' walk of the present depot. The great dependence of purchasers contemplating to build would, however, be a new station near Scott-avenue, which will probably be built as soon as a few more commuters reside in that vicinity. Free passage from New-York will be extended to all persons desirous in good faith of attending the sale. A liberal collation will also be served, under a tent provided for the purpose. The special train will leave the foot of Cortlandt-street at 12 M. Tickets may be had at the auctioneers' office, No. 25 Nassau-street.

Messrs. A. J. BERECKER, Son & Co. will sell 122 villa sites in the city of Plainfield, N. J., adjoining Hyde Park. A special train will leave the foot of Liberty-street at 11 o'clock, A. M. Free tickets may be had at the auctioneer's office, No. 77 Cedar-street, or of Mr. D. C. HYDE, Nos. 4 and 6 Pine-street.

Messrs. A. D. MELLICK, Jr. & BRO. also have a sale at Plainfield, N. J. Carriages will be in waiting at Plainfield Station on the arrival of the 12 M. train from New-York. Should the weather be unfavorable, the sale will take place on the next fair day. Maps and particulars at auctioneer's office, No. 26 Pine-street.

TUESDAY, JUNE 29, 1869,

250 OF THE CHOICEST LOTS

In the First Ward of the City of Rahway. Should weather compel a postponement, the sale will be positively held the next fair day.

The property is splendidly situated on Grand, Broad, Lafferty and Rutherford sts., Scott and Lincoln ave. The lots are on high ground, only a few moments' walk from the depot, and within a short distance of the Rahway River, which is navigable for vessels drawing 8 feet of water. Rahway has constant communication with New-York by 24 daily trains over the New-Jersey Railroad, the shortest of the principal cities in New-Jersey; no place so near New-York has greater natural advantages. It has extensive manufactories, churches, &c. Population 12,000; 12 churches. Excellent schools. Township population 18,000. All leading streets graded, and main thoroughfares paved with Belgian pavement. This will be the FIRST EXTENSIVE SELL-OFF OF RAHWAY PROPERTY. The terms will be very liberal, one-third of the purchase money may remain on bond and mortgage.

HOW TO GO.—Take special train, which will leave foot of Cortlandt-st., by New-Jersey Railroad, at 12 o'clock on the day of sale, June 29. Free excursion tickets can be had of JOHNSON & MILLER, No. 25 Nassau-st., New-York, or of GEORGE R. JAQUES, Esq., No. 320 Broadway, New-York.

POSITIVE SALE OF 122 VILLA SITES, CITY OF PLAINFIELD, N. J., adjoining Hyde Park.

ON PEMBERTON, CENTRAL, LANE AND FIELD AVS. AND ADJOINING STREETS.

Sixty-five minutes from Wall-st., N. Y.

These plots will be sold by auction upon the ground on TUESDAY, June 29, 1869, rain or shine, as the land is a sandy loam and not affected by rain.

It is the most elevated land on the Plain. The avenues and streets regularly graded and laid out by R. Graves, City Surveyor of New-York.

It is beautifully situated, having all the comforts of gas, water, accessibility to the City, with pure mountain air, fine drives and healthiness of the country.

Special train leaves foot of Liberty-st., TUESDAY, June 29, at 11 A. M.

Lunch, &c., on the arrival of the train.

For free passes, maps and particulars, apply to the Auctioneers, No. 77 Cedar-st., or to D. C. HYDE, Nos. 4 and 6 Pine-st.

The wood is to be delivered on the wharves of the respective forts, in the usual cords, the cords to be measured, provided for the recognition at each port, and paid for according to the weights as certified to by the Acting Quartermaster at the place of delivery.
Bidders must state separately the price of which they will deliver the wood and coal called for, at each of the above-named places.
Each proposal must be accompanied by a guarantee, signed by two responsible persons, that in case the bid is accepted, and a contract entered into, they will become sureties in a sum equal to one-fourth of the amount of the contract for the faithful performance of the contract.
The Government reserves the right to reject any or all bids presented, as deemed expedient to the Department, or to accept such portion of any bid, not less than one-half of the same, that may be deemed of advantage to the public service.
Bids may be made and will be entertained for delivering the coal and wood at any one or more of the places specified.
Bidders have the privilege of being present at the opening of the bids.
Proposals must be addressed to the undersigned and marked "Proposals for wood or coal," (as the case may be,) to whom application should be made for additional particulars.
By order of Brevet Major-General RUFUS INGALLS, Chief Quartermaster, Department of the East, Military Army, and Chief Quartermaster Department of the East. WM. T. ROWELL, Brevet Major,
Acting Assistant Quartermaster United States Army, Chief Quartermaster First District, Department of the East.

PROPOSALS FOR $2,767,000.—TAX RELIEF BONDS OF THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.
Sealed proposals will be received at the Comptroller's office, UNTIL TUESDAY, June 29, 1869, at 12 o'clock P. M., when the same will be publicly opened, for the whole or any part of the sum of $2,767,000, of "Tax Relief Bonds of the City of New-York," authorized by Sec. 3 of Chap. 876, Laws of 1869.
Said bonds are to be issued for the purpose of providing means to redeem the Family Aid Fund Bonds of the City of New-York, of Nov. 1, 1869, that portion of the county debt, due Nov. 1, and the quota of the State tax to be levied on account of State debt, chargeable to the County of New-York during the present year.
The bonds will bear interest at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, on the 1st day of May and November in each year, and the principal will be redeemed on the 1st day of July, in the year 1879.
The proposals will state the amount of bonds desired, and the price per $100 thereof; and the persons whose proposals are accepted, will be required to deposit with the Chamberlain the sums awarded to them respectively, together with any premium thereon.
The "Family Aid Fund Bonds, No. 5," of the City of New-York, due Nov. 1, 1869; the bonds of the County of New-York, entitled "New-York County Relief Bonds," of the repayment of Tax, due Nov. 1, 1869, and the "Revenue Bonds of the City and County of New-York, of 1868," will be accepted at their par values and accrued interest, in payment, on account of any proposal made for the "Tax Relief Bonds of the City of New-York, which may be accepted, and in such case the adjustment will be made at this office and the new bonds issued.
Proposals should be addressed to the Comptroller; the receipts of the Chamberlain for deposits made with him on account of the aforesaid loan, the parties will be entitled to receive bonds for equal amounts of the par value of the amount awarded to them, bearing interest from the dates of payment.
This loan, without increasing the debt of the City, offers an investment to companies and individuals desirous of a safe and profitable investment.
Each proposal should be sealed and indorsed, "Proposals for Tax Relief Bonds of the City of New-York," and inclosed in a second envelope addressed to the Comptroller.
The right is reserved, as the part of the Comptroller, to reject any or all of the bids if, in his judgment, the interests of the City shall require it.
RICHARD B. CONNOLLY, Comptroller.
City of New-York, Department of Finance, Comptroller's Office, June 19, 1869.
The Comptroller invites proposals for the above designated bonds is hereby extended to THURSDAY, July 8, 1869, at the same place and hour.

THE STORMS.

Great Damage to Property on Long Island and Elsewhere.

Casualties on the Sound and Loss of Life.

Several Persons Killed by Lightning.

The Storm on Long Island—Sheep Struck by Lightning off Whitestone—The Mate Killed—A Gentleman Killed at Rockaway—All the Causes of a Blood Storm.

Long Island seems to have suffered peculiarly from the visitation of the storm on Sunday. From all parts of the island we receive accounts of disasters and destruction. Houses have been struck and damaged; telegraphic wires have been literally burned; many persons have been rendered insensible; and in one or two instances a sad loss of life has been the result. Perhaps the most remarkable incident of the storm was the wreck of the sloop John Wright. This vessel was sailing off Whitestone, when the fury of the storm burst forth; she was struck with immense force by the lightning and immediately capsized and sunk. The mate was no doubt killed by the shock, for when thrown into the water he did not appear to struggle or make any effort to save himself, but sank immediately.

At Far Rockaway a number of instances of the storm's fearful energies are mentioned. At the Seaside House nine persons were severely shocked by the lightning, some of them so badly as to need medical assistance. The Bay View House at Canarsie, was also struck, and the inmates suffered severely from the shock. In one instance it became necessary to send to East New-York for medical assistance.

STATEMENT OF AN EYE-WITNESS.

We have been furnished with the following statement in regard to the appearance of the storm, and its effects upon the inmates of the Sea Side House at Rockaway, by a gentleman who was present when the lightning struck the place.

He says: Yesterday, about 4 o'clock P. M., clouds of ominous blackness began to gather in the northwest, accompanied by rumbling of distant thunder. As the clouds gathered over the bay north of the bay Sea Side House they increased in darkness for about half an hour, being occasionally illuminated with vivid bashes of lightning that descended in vertical lines to the horizon from an arc of about forty-five degrees. The clouds that preceded the darker masses passed over the hotel toward the ocean and became of a lighter hue, and seemed to roll upon each other in grand masses of vapor, with outlines as distinct as can be found in the most rugged and sublime upheavals of mountain scenery. From the craggy points of those advancing clouds electricity was passing off with a crackling noise, like the rapid discharge of rifle shots. When the heaviest and darkest clouds came directly over the hotel, the flashes of lightning became painfully vivid and the air hot almost to suffocation.

The guests of the hotel, to the number of nearly forty, had gathered in the main parlor, and were all seated, the doors and windows being all open, when a bolt of electricity suddenly prostrated every person in the room. In an instant the persons least injured sprang to their feet, and found close upon seven or eight of the guests unconscious and apparently dead. The ladies, who were dressed in silk, were the least affected. There being a doctor upon the premises, restoratives were applied, and all began soon to recover, and in less than two hours were out of danger. The bolt that entered the room appeared to some to be about the size of a six-pound cannon ball; as it spent its force, it left in the room a suffocating smell of sulphur. It is remarkable that no one was conscious of hearing the thunder accompanying the bolt of electricity, nor did those who were hurt the most see any flash of light. Some felt the shock in their backs, some in their arms, others in their feet. The lightning entered the room near the conductor, on the west end of the building, and shivered the ceiling on one side of the chimney. In less than two hours from the accident all were as well (bating the fright) as though nothing had happened.

OTHER CASUALTIES.

A gentleman of this City, named JOHN P. LYNCH, was killed on the beach at Far Rockaway, by a stroke of lightning. The storm, though not quite unexpected, descended so rapidly that a number of persons were caught upon the beach. Mr. LYNCH had been enjoying a walk there, and when the rain began to fall he hurried through the sands as fast as he was able toward his hotel. He was, however, doomed never to reach it alive. When opposite the Old Pavilion grounds, he was struck lifeless to the earth, and his body was subsequently found by some of the bathing-house people.

In Jamaica there seems to have been considerable destruction of property. The houses of PETER LARKIN and JOHN CARMAN were struck and much damaged. Other dwellings had buildings and furniture struck and injured. The telegraph wires of the South Side Telegraph Company were burned and broken by the electric fluid in a number of places, and the apparatus will need considerable repairs.

Storm on the East River—Sinking of a Schooner—Two Men Lost.

A schooner, the name of which was not ascertained, while sailing down the East River toward New-York on Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock, and when near College Point, was struck by the lightning and almost immediately sunk with all her sails set. The lightning appeared to have torn off her side planking near the water line. She had four men on board at the time she was struck, two only of whom were rescued by a small fishing smack, which fortunately happened to be near her. The other men are supposed to have been killed by the lightning, or stunned and carried down with the vessel.

Effects of the Storm in Queens County.

The storm of wind, rain and electricity which passed over Long Island on Sunday afternoon was one of the most severe ever known in the vicinity. Considerable damage was done in all directions, trees and houses being thrown down in one or two places. In East New-York three houses were struck by lightning; two of them were situated on Baltic-avenue and Madison-street. They had but recently been erected by M. C. REILLY, Esq. The other building struck is owned by Mr. COMSTOCK, and located on the corner of Washington-avenue and Baltic-street. It was but slightly damaged. Five persons who were in the house at the time of the shock were thrown to the floor and slightly stunned. At College Point the storm was also very severe; several trees were torn up and PARSONS' green-house was damaged. In the Sound opposite the Point a number of small sailing vessels received considerable injury.

The Storm in Westchester County—Two Oxen Killed—Huge Trees Thrown Down.

Mr. H. S. KNOWLTON and Mr. THOMAS WEAR, residing near Port Chester, each lost a valuable ox by lightning on Sunday evening, and some damage was done on the premises of Colonel BARTRAM.

Lightning struck the ground at four different points in the village of Mount Vernon, on Sunday evening, but no damage was done as far as ascertained.

At the house of Mr. EDWIN HORTON, near the Episcopal Church, Portchester, after knocking over one of the chimneys, the electric fluid passed along the tin roofing to the opposite side of the building, thence downward, tearing off the siding on its course. It then entered a room where a boy was sitting and affected him so badly that he was unconscious for a short time. The fluid descended to the kitchen below, where it tore the range, to pieces and scattered things in all directions.

During the thunder storm on Sunday afternoon, the lightning struck a large locust tree on the premises of Mr. WM. G. SEACORD, at Upper New-Rochelle, and a horse belonging to Mr. S. F. UNDERHILL, that was standing under the tree at the time. Miss MARTHA J. MOORE, a young lady 16 years old, who was standing in the kitchen of Mr. SEACORD, was thrown down by the shock, and so severely injured as to render medical assistance necessary. Several other persons residing in the neighborhood were affected by the shock.

The Storm in New-Jersey—House Struck by Lightning.

From the Newark Advertiser, June 28.

A shower of unusual violence originated in the Blue Mountain region on the northern borders of the State, yesterday afternoon, and passed over Sussex and Morris Counties in a direct southeastern course to this city. It was first observed at Newton, Sussex County, about 3 o'clock, and there the thunder was not only the most terrific heard for years, but for half an hour the rain fell as it had never fallen before in that section. On the black cloud-scarp, like the besom of destruction, and about 4 o'clock burst over this city, startling our people with its vivid flashes and deafening peals, and pouring down the streets such a flood of water as made the insufficiency of our sewerage manifest to all. Railroad-avenue, as usual when a storm is violent and prolonged, was soon inundated, and Kinney-street, Washington, near Market, and the vicinity of Sussex-avenue, exhibited miniature floods such as seldom result from so brief a shower. In Washington-street several basements were flooded, as well as those on Railroad-avenue. During the continuance of the shower, the lightning which accompanied it struck in several places, but so yet we learn of no loss of life, or extensive damage therefrom.

The house of Mr. E. F. CRANE, No. 76 State-street, was struck, which passed down the lightning rod attached to the main building and perforated its way through the tin roof of an extension but lately completed, passed down into the interior, shattered both sides of a partition between two rooms, and then followed the gas-pipe to the ground under the building. A gentleman sat some five feet from the point where the fluid entered the gas-pipe, with a child in his arms, and both were for a moment stunned by the flying bolt. The pipe was melted at its junction with the metre, and the escaping gas was ignited by the intensity of the heat.

In the Eleventh Ward, one of the corner stones of the house known as the "Cherry Tree Cottage," on Orange-street, was shattered, but none of the inmates were injured, the fluid burying itself in the ground.

At East Orange, a shed attached to a barn belonging to Mr. JOHN STORY, on Steele-street, was struck, the bolt passing out of the building and shattering a post on the outside. A gentleman passing by at the time was prostrated and stunned for a moment or so. Another gentleman, who was hitched near the barn, while standing in one of his rooms, the window of which was open, was wrapped in what seemed to be a sheet of flame. He suffered in bewildered, except a temporary feeling of nausea.

At Montclair the house of Mr. JULIUS H. PRAHT—to which there are four lightning rods attached—was completely traversed and invaded by electricity. The current seemed to have been attracted to the rods in such a volume that they failed to conduct it all to the ground, and it tore off a part of the roof and entered the house. A person whose attention was attracted to the house at the time from the outside, saw upon the roof what appeared to him a ball of fire as large as a barrel. Mr. PRAHT was about ascending the stairs when the fluid entered, and when opposite the open door of the dining-room, saw it brilliantly illuminated with waves of flame, which appeared to shoot off from a central centre, each wave separating from the central point with a report. When he got up stairs he found that his little daughter, who was lying in bed with a broken collar-bone, had been violently removed from one side of the bed to the other, and she informed her father that she felt as if she was all on fire. Two panes of glass in the parlor windows were broken out, and the gilding upon the molding at the top of the ceiling peeled off in considerable quantities. In the cellar the plastering was torn off the ceiling, and two servants, who had gone to a pan of currants between them, which they were preparing for tea, said the current passed directly between them. It also traversed the wires of the burglar alarm, and left the house pervaded by a sulphurous smell. The wonder is that no lives were lost and so little damage done.

At Bloomfield the house of Mr. JAMES WARD was struck and slightly damaged, and his son, who was in the cellar at the time, knocked down and stunned.

In East Newark no damage was done by the lightning, but several large trees on Mr. M. DAVIS' place were blown down across the road.

In Elizabeth the storm was the severest known for years. The new bridge over the creek, at Grand-street, which is in course of erection, was swept away by the torrent, and some other damage was done.

Great Freshet in and About Waterloo, Canada—Damage to Property.

WATERLOO, Canada, Monday, June 28.

The heavy rains yesterday gave rise to another great freshet, equal to that which occurred early in the Spring. Five mill dams that stood fast then have yielded to the present freshet. A large number of buildings and fences have also been carried away. The damage to farm property is very considerable.

The Effects of the Tornado in Philadelphia.

From the Philadelphia Telegraph, June 28.

During yesterday afternoon and early evening some three or four storms of the rudest kind—wind, rain, hail and thunder—drenched, frightened and damaged the city. The most disastrous occurred between 5 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The rain was preceded by the wind, which did its work effectually, unroofing and demolishing buildings, uprooting trees and destroying growing crops. The hail and lightning followed, completing the destruction. In the lower part of the city, particularly in the First, Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh Wards, the wind blew a perfect hurricane, and the hail covered the ground to a depth of half an inch. The storm appeared to spend its fury about the neighborhood of Front and Fifth and Mifflin streets. So far as known no human lives were lost, but property was damaged to the extent of many thousands of dollars. Scores of chimneys were either thrown down or partly wrecked. Telegraph poles were prostrated, and the wires twisted and broken. Hundreds of fruit and shade trees were uprooted and rendered worthless. Limbs were broken off of other trees, shrubbery was ruined, flowers were scattered and torn up, and a scene of devastation was visible wherever the whirlwind held sway. Great damage was done to the crops of cereals and vegetables in what is known as the Neck and portions of the Twenty-seventh Ward. Many fields of grain look as if rollers had been passed over them. Miles of fences have been demolished and numbers of fowls killed. The direction of the main storm was southeastern. It raged for more than half an hour.

Among the properties destroyed and injured were the following: The lower depot of the Fifth and Sixth Street Passenger Railway Company, a long frame structure on a lot just north of Moore-street, and extending through from Fifth to Sixth-street, was struck by the wind and dashed to pieces, scarcely a timber being left upright. Many pieces of the splintered boards were carried over a square distant by the gale. About the time the wind struck the building a terrible clap of thunder occurred, and, from the appearance of some of the fragments of the destroyed depot, it is believed that the lightning struck it, and may have been instrumental in the work of destruction.

The roofs of two brick houses on the south side of Mifflin-street, above Front, were lifted into the air by the force of the wind, and were carried a considerable distance, alighting on an open lot. The roofs of two small houses in what is known as the Neck—Nos. 2 and 3 in the same locality—shared a similar fate, as did also the roof of the Greenwich M. E. Church; the roofs of two houses on Fifth and Close streets, the roof of a house on Otsego-street, above Mifflin, the roofs of Nos. 2 and 3 Siegel-street, the roof of a building at Fifth and McClain streets, the roofs of two buildings at SHARP's foundry, Second and Mifflin streets, the roof of a shed at the coal-yard, Second and Tasker streets, and another at Front and Greenwich streets, and numerous other roofs in that locality. The bone factory of TASKER & CLARK, on Otsego-street, below Mifflin, and the fencing around NORRIS, CHASE & NORTH's factory were blown down. Portions of the roofs of some fifteen or twenty other houses in the same vicinity were more or less damaged by the storm. On Koehler's-lane and Otsego-street, four dwellings were uncovered. They are three-story brick houses, and were covered with shingles. The roofs were taken off at the same time and carried 200 or 300 yards. The dwellings were occupied by JOHN POWELL, WILLIAM BRITTON, WILLIAM SMITH and ISAAC BECKETT.

A short distance south of the destroyed depot two new brick dwelling-houses on Hoffman-street, west of Fifth, which were ready to receive the joists of the second floor, were demolished. At Fifth and McKean-street, a half square further south, the roof was lifted bodily from the dwelling of Mr. JACOB MYERS, and carried about a hundred yards, falling into a truck garden on the opposite side of the street. The roof was composed of inch boards, covered with tin, and the whole was carried off together. Much rain falling afterward, Mr. MYERS' household effects suffered, and the interior of the building is damaged. The bone factory of Messrs. TASKER & CLARK, before mentioned, is a large building in four sections, and the roof of each section was carried away and fell several hundred yards distant, some of the planks penetrating the earth to the depth of four or five feet. The roof was a gravel one, and the board sheathing was fitted up with the felting and the gravel. A brick school-house on Greenwich-street, below Moyamensing-avenue, was partially unroofed.

The storm likewise raged with great severity in the vicinity of Hedrington. The Summer residence of ROSWELL G. MERCER, Esq., at Sixty-fifth and Vine streets, was damaged. A portion of the portico was blown down, and a number of fruit trees leveled with the ground.

Seventeenth District Union Republican Association.

A well-attended meeting of the above political organization was held last evening at its Wigwam on Forty-sixth-street, near Eighth-avenue. Mr. GEO. B. BRADFORD occupied the chair, and Mr. DOBBIN acted as Secretary, and after some unimportant business had been transacted a long discussion took place on patronage, resulting in the following resolutions being carried:

Resolved, That this Association concurs the action of Mr. A. P. KETCHUM, recently appointed Assessor of this district, for the manner in which he has distributed the patronage of his office, and for entirely ignoring the claims of persons recommended to him by this Association.

Resolved, That a Committee of three be appointed by the Chair to confer with the Committee from the other District Associations in Conclave in the 9th Congressional District, with power to take such measures as they may deem expedient in relation to the Assembly ticket of the Ninth Congressional District.

A committee of three having been appointed in accordance with these resolutions, some complimentary remarks were made respecting Mr. JENKINS, the late Treasurer, whose place is supplied by Mr. CHEGIER.

Mr. DOBBIN, the Secretary, then tendered his resignation, which, after earnest entreaty on the part of the whole body, was allowed to lay over, the meeting then adjourning.

FAILURE OF THE FILLIBUSTERS.

The Quaker City Not Sailed, as Reported.

Capture of the Steamer Whiting with the Fillibusters on Board—End of the Expedition.

It transpired yesterday that the report of the sailing of the steamer Quaker City for Cuba is a total fabrication, devised for the purpose of creating a sensation. It is contradicted by unquestioned authority—no less than that of Marshal BARLOW, who has been constantly on the watch to intercept the departure of expeditions calculated to cause a violation of the neutrality laws. Marshal BARLOW received intelligence on Thursday last that a number of Cuban recruits would be conveyed on Saturday evening by tug-boats from different points around New-York, to a vessel which awaited them in the stream. He was previously informed that the steamer Catherine Whiting, which cleared for Galveston, Texas, on Friday, and lay at anchor off Bedloe's Island, was the vessel which was intended to carry the expeditionary forces. The suspicions against her were made more positive from the fact that the only cargo which she had on board was a load of hay and provisions; and accordingly it was determined to preserve a strict watch on her. A few subsequent inquiries gave some conclusive evidence of her filibustering character, as they developed the fact that she was cleared by the same parties who sent off the steamer Ferol some time ago. The revenue cutter Henry McCulloch, Captain MERRYMAN, was consequently ordered to keep a close scrutiny on the Whiting and prevent her sailing at all hazards. Marshal BARLOW himself embarked on the tugboat Sarah Reeve, and made an inspection of the shores on both sides of the Hudson River, hoping to encounter the filibusters and circumvent their designs.

At a very late hour on Saturday night it was reported that three parties of men had been taken on board tugboats and were coming down the river. The Catherine Whiting was then watched more carefully, it being understood that she was soon to leave her place of anchorage. A blank cartridge was promptly fired at her from the revenue cutter, followed by a howitzer shot, when the Whiting manifested no intention of coming to. The second shot whissed across her bows and then she quickly came to anchor, and was boarded by the United States officers. She was subsequently ordered to be detained, and the revenue cutter was stationed alongside of her, with guns loaded, in readiness to meet any contingency. The tugboats with the filibusters on board disappeared in the darkness, and what became of them was not ascertained, but it is supposed they disembarked after discovering that the Whiting had been seized.

Marshal BARLOW emphatically denies that any expedition has left this City at any time for the invasion of Cuba, except the steamer Ferol, whose departure was chronicled in the TIMES several weeks ago. He says that the latter vessel only carried about 80 men who were intended to take charge of the ordnance which she had on board until it safely reached the hands of the Cuban insurrectionists.

Yesterday Dr. F. J. MCNULTY and Dr. J. W. DU BOIS, who were recently arrested as being Cuban officers, were brought before Commissioner SHIELDS, and were permitted to go free, conditionally on their promising to appear when called for.

THE GREAT BRIDGE.

The Proposed Connection of New-York and Brooklyn—Address by Hon. Dennis Barnes.

Hon. DENNIS BARNES delivered an address last evening, in the Brooklyn Athenæum, on the contemplated bridge which is to unite New-York and Brooklyn. Owing, perhaps, to the disappointment incident to the premature announcement of the address for last Thursday evening, as well as the biteness of the season, there was but a small audience present.

Rev. Dr. STORRS prefaced the address of the evening by a brief review of the early settlement and progress of Brooklyn in population and wealth.

Mr. BARNES, after a few general remarks, spoke as follows:

Some very intelligent gentlemen fear that the grade will be a serious obstacle to the utility of the bridge. They say—who will ever climb 130 feet to cross it. My dear sirs, who has asked you to do it. Have you ever crossed Fulton Ferry? Do you know the double-decked boat now makes either side to get from the ferry? To go from Sands-street, Brooklyn, to Broadway, New-York, by boat, we now descend sixty-eight feet and then ascend forty feet, a total grade of 108 feet. To get from land to the same point by bridge we will ascend sixty-two feet and descend sixty feet, a total grade of 122 feet, or only forty-four feet more elevation to be overcome on a mile grade than we now do twice a day and hardly notice it. We do not start from the River, but sixty-two feet above the river. It is but a little longer than the Cincinnati bridge. No new mechanical principles are involved. The necessity for six tracks, of a floor eighty feet wide, must prove the mechanical solidity. I come not here to advocate any particular kind of bridge. I know that a bridge of some kind we must have. I do not believe that capital will ever invest in a tunnel requiring near 300 feet of grade on both sides, after the verdict of the people has been so decidedly given against subterranean travel under the Thames. I do not believe that the Government will ever consent to imperil Sandy Hook and our magnificent Bay, by adopting dykes across the river. I do believe that a suspension bridge is the most practical.

But, fellow-citizens, a bridge is not all our need. Twenty thousand persons daily, or 6,000,000 yearly, cross Fulton Ferry, whose destination is above Canal-street. Suppose we take Fulton Ferry, Brooklyn, and cast your eye to the corner of Broadway and Canal-street, and you will be looking straight up Catharine-street—distance to Broadway one mile. But we are not allowed to go this way. We are floated near a quarter of a mile to the Ferry-street, then carried up Fulton-street by a southerly inclination to Broadway, thence by right angle to Canal-street, distance one and three-quarter miles. Add the time lost by crowded thoroughfares, and the distance is more than doubled. We do not propose to dispense with Fulton Ferry as it now is, to accommodate down-town and cross-town trade. But we cannot accept this as all we are entitled to. The richesty of Fulton Market occupies one-third of the street. This we should realize not as a public nuisance, and remove it. Next we must widen Fulton-street, New-York, cutting it through to Ann-street, on a straight line to the Astor House. In addition to this, we must run boats from Fulton-street, Brooklyn, to Catharine-street, New-York, widen Catherine-street to the Bowery, extend it 1,000 feet, to the corner of Canal and Mulberry streets, and we have almost an air line from Fulton Ferry, Brooklyn, to Canal-street, to Broadway, to West-street, New-York. A slight deflection at the Bowery carries us to Union-square, another straight line up Chambers-street, and another up Second-avenue.

Look at the map. There is not a man of us who does not realize that these are the most vital improvements in which Brooklyn can be interested. They would be invitation cards to a vast population. They would be what the Erie Canal was to New-York—channels of communication—of which now we have not one. Double line Hope Arch once a necessity. Commerce did not long submit to that circuitous communication. It first built the Panama Railroad, then the great Pacific Road. Why should we double Fulton-street to reach the St. Nicholas Hotel? A half-hour saved to six million transits a year is a 125,000 days, which, at $5 a day, is $625,000 per annum. The cost of the Catherine-street improvement will not much exceed this sum, over the assessments, for benefit to adjoining property.

But my conservative friend says: "What have we to do with New-York street? How can we effect these improvements?" Innocent sir—by treaty, by purchase; and, if by no other means, then by annexing New-York to Brooklyn, so that we can have a say, when they choose to barricade our streets. But there is another way. Let passengers be carried from Fulton Ferry to Catherine-street for their pleasure. Railroads would soon meet them there—the building would soon be forced back, and the extension of the street to Canal would follow without a quarter's delay. This would cost Brooklyn nothing.

All the ferries to the great continent across Hudson River last year carried 26,000,000 passengers. Those to Brooklyn carried 51,550,000—almost twice as many to Brooklyn as to the entire States west of us. This proves where the people prefer to reside. The addition of 1,500 persons to a population of 10,000 is not a wonderful thing, but the addition of 10,000 population this year, and of 100,000 a year ten years hence, is a matter of very great importance. Why, my friends, since this Bridge Company was incorporated we have added 49,000 to our population, and before it is completed we shall gain 300,000 more. Are the ferries adequate, or can they be made adequate to sustain the growing interests of Brooklyn? Ferries will not be dispensed with. Both they and the bridge will be needed. The further the termini of the bridge from the ferries, the more rapid the communications to distant points. Business men take the cars and down the hill will, of course, prefer the ferries.

THE COST AND PROFIT OF THE BRIDGE.

If the effect of this bridge will add two per cent. extra to the natural increase of our wealth from this time forward, it will be $6,000,000 in 1870 and $95,000,000 in 1900, or an average of $17,500,000 new wealth per year for thirty years—which, at three per cent., will bring us a tax income of $15,750,000, or of $630,000 per annum. The interest on $6,000,000 of bridge debt at seven per cent. will be $420,000. All paid for us. Not a very competitive luxury, certainly. It is said that the increase will not commence immediately, I reply that I think you are wrong; but if it does not, neither will the debt be to be at once contracted. Can we afford to drive from our doors the wealth of an empire, because, perchance, we may have to pay a few extra dollars some year?

A farmer might or well refuse to fence new lands upon which to plant crops, because he happens to be in debt, as Brooklyn refuses to build this bridge over which would flow our future wealth.

The Mayor of New-York, in his recent message, says: "How are we to afford 20,000 people daily and rapid communication to and from their business at about one hour of the day?" and answers it by asserting, "that it is necessary to postpone the construction of suburban lines." He then urges the speedy building of underground and elevated railways up-town, so that instead of saying "New-York is twelve miles long, we can say it is a half hour long."

Let us answer the question for Mayor HALL by placing cars at Canal, Bond, Fourteenth-street, etc., which shall fly by quickest routes across a portion of the heights, and land passengers at Prospect Park, Bay Ridge or East New-York.

This bridge is to be built, chealing as it does to our pride, our gratitude and prosperity. When completed, let it illustrate the grandeur of our age; let it be the Mecca to which foreign peoples shall come. Let Brooklyn now take up the pen of prophecy. Babylon has had her hanging gardens, Nineveh her towers, and Rome her Coliseum, let us have this great monument to progress.

Mr. BARNES concluded with a glowing picture of the "great bridge" when complete and sailing in mid-air. The commerce of millions of people shall pass over it, while the shipping of the first commercial city in the world shall float beneath.

Brooklyn Board of Aldermen—A Truant House Site Purchased for $22,000.

The regular meeting of the Brooklyn Board of Aldermen was held yesterday afternoon, Mr. BERGEN, President, in the chair.

A communication was received from the Mayor vetoing the resolution adopted at a previous meeting directing the Street Commissioner to notify the Atlantic-avenue Railroad Company to remove their T rails and substitute flat rails therefor, and, if they should refuse, instructing the Corporation Counsel to take such steps as might be necessary to compel them to do so. The Mayor doubted whether the Board had any legal right to take such a step, and recommended that the subject be referred to the Corporation Counsel for his opinion. This course was directed.

It was resolved to award the contract for rebuilding the dock at the foot of North Second-street, E. D., for the sum of $6,800, to JOHN FLANNERY.

It was resolved, notwithstanding the veto of the Mayor, to grant to the People's Gaslight Company laying their mains in the streets of Brooklyn.

The Truant House troubles have been brought to an end, after three years spent in looking at sites in and around Brooklyn. A resolution was adopted selecting as the site of the institution the Sneddiker property on the Jamaica Plank road, consisting of eleven acres, at $26,000. There is a house on the property which can be fitted up for about $800, and prepared for the Truant Home purposes sufficiently useful for a number of years.

The Board soon after adjourned.

The Park Savings Bank Robbers in Brooklyn—Arrest of Three Brokers in New-York—Further Revelations Expected.

Yesterday, warrants having been obtained from Justice WALSH, of the City Hall Police Court, Brooklyn, the following-named New-York brokers were arrested: JOHN ROSE, Jr., No. 29 Pine-street; C. B. LE BARON, No. 26 Pine-street, and SAMUEL V. FRENCH, No. 176 Fulton-street. They were taken before Justice WALSH, charged with having been concerned in the robbery of the Park Savings Bank last February, to the extent of receiving some of the stolen bonds. It is alleged that these brokers had in their possession a portion of the bonds stolen from the bank, viz.: six Wallabout Improvement bonds, representing $1,000 each. The prisoners were represented in court by Ex-Judge MOORE as their counsel. They pleaded "not guilty" to the charge brought against them, and were admitted to bail in the sum of $10,000 each to appear for examination. EDWARD HAMILTON, who was arrested on Saturday, while attempting to sell some of the stolen bonds in the office of Mr. WM. L. GILL, counsel for the bank, No. 252 Fulton-street, Brooklyn, will be brought up for examination to-day, at 4 o'clock.

German School Association of the Tenth Ward.

Last night a meeting was held, at No. 274 Grand-street, by a large number of German citizens of the Tenth Ward, in order to form an association for the purpose of acting in concert with the German School Associations of other wards in this City. Mr. G. LEWECK was elected President, and Mr. SAMUEL STERN Secretary. Mr. C. HERZBERG opened the meeting by enlarging on the aims of the Association, which are as follows: Introduction of the German branch as a branch of instruction in the public schools. Secondly, the improvement of the public school system generally, with a view to appoint as teachers able men only, without regard to party. After Messrs. AHRENS, SAMUEL STERN, Dr. BEHRMANN, Dr. GEMMER and others had spoken on the aims of the Association, a list of members was laid before the meeting and was covered with numerous signatures. The meeting then adjourned to July 7.
